'Mrs. Hospital' resigns

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Irene Oliver, administrator of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital since its opening in 1952, resigned Monday night.

She will be succeeded by James Rosenbaum, now assistant administrator.

Mrs. Oliver told the hospital board Monday evening she will retire from hospital administration, but is considering work with the Peace Corps or Vista programs.

Mrs. Oliver was appointed administrator of Magic Valley Memorial on Sept. 15, 1952, taking the helm of the then new hospital building.

Rosenbaum was offered the administrator's post by the hospital board Monday evening after it accepted Mrs. Oliver's resignation. He was asked to give his answer in a few days. Although Rosenbaum did not give the board a formal answer, he indicated he would accept.

After the letter of resignation from Mrs. Oliver was received, the board went into executive session to discuss it. On reconvening in public session, the board announced Mrs. Oliver's resignation had been accepted and the post offered to Rosenbaum.

William Wiseman, hospital board chairman, said the resignation was "accepted with regret" and a special vote of appreciation was given Mrs. Oliver.

Mrs. Oliver's resignation is effective Dec. 1, but she will be available to assist Rosenbaum with administration matters if needed after that date.

Mrs. Oliver, a registered nurse in her native Massachusetts, entered hospital administration in Ithaca, N. Y. She served there for several years before accepting the Twin Falls position.

Mrs. Oliver has been active in professional organizations. She holds a fellowship in the American College of Hospital Administrators, of which she is a life member, and the Idaho Hospital Association, of which she is past president.

She is a member of the Blue Cross board of directors and Governor's Advisory Commission on Comprehensive Health Planning.

Hospital administration, she said, is a fulltime job and she has not been active in social and service organizations in Twin Falls.

"Hospital administration is a good career and one which challenges both men and women. I cannot say it is a better field for men than women," she said.

During the time she has administered the hospital at Twin Falls, a number of changes have been made in the field of medical service.

CSI gets TV go-ahead

TWIN FALLS — The Federal Communications Commission has approved construction of a television translator for the College of Southern Idaho.

According to CSI President James L. Taylor, the college could be broadcasting within a few months.

Taylor told college trustees Monday night that the college had been notified of the approval by Martin I. Levy, chief of the broadcast facilities division of the FCC's broadcast bureau.

Levy said the FCC had granted authority to construct a television broadcast translator station. Construction could be commenced immediately.

According to Taylor, an additional application must be made to the FCC prior to beginning broadcasting.

Taylor said today the college plans to construct a 100-foot tower on Jerome Butte adjacent to the KMYT tower.

He said the station would operate at a 100-watt level, just enough to carry programming to Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

Taylor said college plans for initial operations are limited to re-broadcast of educational programs originated at KAMD, the Boise State College station.

Programs would be broadcast for about four hours a day, probably during the daytime to permit use by both CSI and area secondary school students, he said.

Annual operating costs should be within $10,000, far short of the $150,000 Taylor estimates it would cost the college should it begin creating its own programs.

Taylor said the costs of the limited re-broadcasting will be borne entirely by the college.

He said the estimated $50,000 cost of erecting the Jerome Butte tower and equipment purchase will be paid by a donation from private industry.

South Korean chief orders martial law

SEOUL (UPI) — President Park Chung Hee today put South Korea under martial law and said the people must approve his plans for political reform if the talks with North Korea on national unification are to continue.

Park's surprise announcement was made to the nation at 6:45 p.m. (3:45 a.m. MDT) and martial law went into effect 15 minutes later. Park dissolved Parliament, suspended the constitution he helped draft in 1963, and banned all political activity.

The former army general, who came to power in 1961, said amendments to the constitution would be announced by Oct. 27 and submitted to a vote of the people.

Park said that if the amendments are turned down by the referendum, he will interpret it as an expression of the will of the people against the dialogue between North and South Korea.

"And then I will seek a new approach to the task of national unification," Park added.

Park's move came only one week before the third round of talks between the North and South Korean Red Cross organizations on the question of reuniting divided Korean families. The talks are scheduled to resume Oct. 24 in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Kissinger on peace roundup

PARIS (UPI) — President Nixon's chief Vietnam adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, met today with North Vietnamese negotiators, then headed for Saigon to consult with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Announcement of Kissinger's flight to Saigon after another of his recent rounds of private talks in Paris was made by the White House.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said in Washington the Saigon trip was one in the series of "regular consultations" by U. S. officials with Thieu. But the stepped up activity fueled speculation that progress was being made in the peace talks.

A key stumbling block in efforts to reach a negotiated settlement of the conflict is the future of the Thieu regime.

Kissinger held his 20th secret conference with Hanoi representatives today.

Ziegler said the decision for Kissinger to go on to Saigon was made prior to this latest session. He said that decision was made by the President last week on Kissinger's return from a previous four-day round of Paris negotiations.

In another unexpected twist, Kissinger met with Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the semipublic weekly Paris peace talks, whom the presidential adviser once spurned.

REP. HALE BOGGS

House leader feared lost

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A fleet of 30 planes was thrown into a massive search today for a light plane lost over the Alaskan wilderness Monday with Congressman Hale Boggs and three other persons aboard.

Search headquarters at Elmendorf Air Force Base said Civil Air Patrol, Coast Guard and Air Force planes were participating in a coordinated effort to comb the rugged mountain wilderness along the Gulf of Alaska where the twin-engine plane disappeared in a rainstorm.

An electronically equipped Air Force C130 flew over the area throughout the night, listening for signals from the lost aircraft's emergency transmitter.

Weather in the search area was "very marginal," an Air Force spokesman said, with low clouds and poor visibility.

The Democratic House Majority Leader was in Alaska on a political fund-raising tour.

Boggs, 58, of Louisiana, Rep. Nick Begich, Alaska's lone Congressman, his aide, Russ Brown, and Don Jonz, an experienced Alaska pilot, were aboard the plane which was en route from Anchorage to Juneau.

The white and orange painted Cessna 310 took off at 9:12 a.m. ADT (2:12 p.m. EDT) and was to have arrived in the southern part of the state 3 1/2 hours later.

Boggs, a veteran of 26 consecutive years in Congress plus an earlier two-year term after which he was defeated for re-election, has often been a supporter of liberal Democratic Legislation.

Citizens meet on school plan

TWIN FALLS — The citizen committee researching a bond election for Twin Falls schools will meet tonight following a school board meeting.

The board of School District No. 411 will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School principal's office and the committee meeting will follow at 8 p.m.

The citizen committee last week proposed the bond election be postponed to allow more time to study needs and priorities of the district.

Superintendent George Staudaher said the school board meeting would be brief, allowing the board to attend the citizen's meeting in the auditorium.

Black critic terms students 'new niggers'

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Dick Gregory weighs less than 100 pounds, has eaten no solid food since April, 1971.

And it took the campus security force to get him off the lecture platform at the College of Southern Idaho Monday night.

Not because of any violence, unruliness or even disagreement at the placid school.

But because from 8 p.m. until shortly past midnight, the former presidential candidate, black comic and high school and college track athlete, kept the small audience enthralled with his witty, serious, piercing denunciations of racism in American society, the country's defense policies, the problems of America's city ghettos and the government neglect, President Nixon, George Meany, the "rightwing news media," the "funky slimy degenerate generals," the so-called institutions of higher education, and Lyndon Johnson.

For good measure, he threw in healthy doses of the virtues of vegetarianism, fruitarianism, Karmatic law, fasting, health foods, jogging, non-violence, and respect of alleged connections of the Central Intelligence Agency with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King and the potential for their intervention in the murder of South Vietnam's President Thieu "if that is the most honorable way out of the war."

He told the student audience they were the "country's newest niggers," but told them they had a responsibility to close the door so "no more niggers could be dragged through after you."

He told them they were the most "honest dedicated committed people in the history of the world," but warned them to abstain from taking alcohol, drugs, coffee, cigarettes and told them "Violence is not the answer."

"You youngsters have a big job to do, giving sanity back to an insane nation, so insane that we send troops 10,000 miles away under the pretense of giving democracy to a country when we won't give it to our brothers the Indians, who we stole this country from."

Tough narcotics laws set by Nixon's aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst announced today the Nixon administration would ask the next Congress for tough new narcotics laws.

They would call for mandatory sentences for first-time traffickers and make mere possession of heroin or cocaine a felony.

Kleindienst outlined the proposals in a text of a speech he intended to make to the annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) in Salt Lake City.

Kleindienst was prevented from making the trip because of travel difficulties, the Justice Department said.

President Nixon had touched on the drug proposals Sunday in a radio political speech.

Kleindienst said the objective of the penalties would be "to use the justice process to curb the narcotics menace rather than to encourage that menace through misplaced sympathy that cares more for the trafficker than for the public."

Four years ago, the administration proposed legislation which was passed in 1970 to make possession of any illicit drug for personal use a misdemeanor with sentencing at the discretion of the judge.

The emphasis then was on downgrading harsh penalties for first offenders who were then subject to terms of 5 to 20 years for possession.

The new proposals include:

Making possession of heroin or cocaine a felony offense.

Imposing strict minimum mandatory sentences for first time traffickers and still tougher minimum mandatory sentences for second offenses.

Prohibiting probation in federal courts for convicted heroin or cocaine traffickers.

Prohibiting the release of a convicted heroin or cocaine trafficker while he is awaiting sentence or the outcome of an appeal.

Placing upon a defendant in federal narcotics cases the burden of convincing the court that his release on bail would pose no danger to another person.

A thought for the day: President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "There is no indispensable man."

Mafia bigwig served subpoena

NEW YORK (UPI) — The leader of one of the five Mafia families which control crime in the New York Metropolitan area — Carmine "Mr. Gribbs" Tramunti — has been served with a subpoena to appear before a Brooklyn grand jury, informed sources said today.

Tramunti was one of 667 alleged underworld figures named in subpoenas issued Monday following revelations by Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold that authorities had cracked the "Summit Headquarters" of organized crime in the New York metropolitan area.

Tramunti reportedly took over the mob headed by the late Thomas "Three Fingers Brown" Luchese after the gangland leader died in jail.

He was to appear before the grand jury next Tuesday along "with others," a source close to Gold revealed.

Gold was to meet both with Mayor John V. Lindsay and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller later today to report in detail on what his office has learned in the massive crackdown on the Mafia — one of the biggest such crackdowns in the history of law enforcement in the United States.

It also was reported that Gold will tell Lindsay and Rockefeller that he has learned through wiretaps that the Mafia has taken over "more than 100 businesses by coercion, threats, assaults and loansharking."

The businesses involved were not revealed.

It also was learned that among those to be called before the grand jury are 100 police officers who either were photographed by motion picture cameras or still cameras going into the Mafia headquarters in a trailer parked in a Brooklyn junkyard.

The revelations followed by one day an announcement by Gold that 1,200 police officers had fanned out throughout the metropolitan area with subpoenas for 667 persons involved in organized crime to appear before the grand jury.

Two other reputed Mafia bigwigs, Natale Evola and Paul Varlo, also were reported to have been served with subpoenas.

Eagle killers plead

DENVER (UPI) — A Wyoming deputy sheriff and a rancher Monday pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to shooting down golden eagles in 1970 and 1971 in northern Colorado.

Two other defendants, Doyle Vaughn and the Buffalo, Wyo., Flying Service which was charged separately, pleaded guilty to one count each of conspiracy to shoot the eagles.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office at Denver and that Vaughn and the flying service which he operates had agreed to plead guilty later in Wyoming to 75 counts each of shooting golden eagles.

U.S. Attorney Ted Halaby said Joe Evans, 44, and Dean Visintiner, 40, each pleaded guilty to five counts of shooting eagles. He said sentencing would come later this month.

Evans, a Carbon County, Wyo., deputy, had been charged with shooting golden eagles on Dec. 28, 1970, and Jan. 4 of the following year. Visintiner, a Craig, Colo., rancher, had been charged with shooting golden eagles on Jan. 4, 1971.

The charges against the men arose from testimony from helicopter pilot James Vogan who told a Senate committee in 1971 that he had flown gunners over southern Wyoming and northern Colorado to shoot bald and golden eagles.

Showers hamper oil scum work

FILIFFERMS, Utah (UPI) — Crews attempting to skim 168,000 gallons of crude oil from the mouth of the San Juan River today were hampered in their efforts by a third straight day of scattered showers over their normally arid southwest.

The showers, usually greeted with thanksgiving, turned the parched land into a sea of mud and mud as men from the Bureau of Reclamation worked to secure a fourth barrier across the river.

Rich Lathrup, Environmental Protection Agency spokesman, said the rains have all but halted land transportation over the area's dirt roads and forced the 110 men working on the clean-up to depend on helicopters for transportation.

Lathrup said the pressure of debris and oil pushed against the booms of logs and styrofoam might break through, sweeping the blanket of oil into Lake Powell.

He said an additional boom was airlifted into the area Monday and crews were scheduled to string it across the river today, upstream from the primary barrier.

"We hope to split the 600 foot long accumulation of debris and oil," Lathrup said. "By doing this we hope to take some of the pressure off our primary boom."

A clamshell loader arrived Monday at the area, near Copper Canyon. The heavy equipment began skimming the oil and petroleum-soaked debris from the water and piled it above the highwater level on the bank.

But here again the rain battled the efforts of the men, washing some of the oil back into the river.

Lathrup said anything getting past the primary barrier was picked up by a secondary boom, and thus far none of the oil has reached Lake Powell.

He said, "One of the messes dries out we'll turn most of it and bury the remnants on an outcropping about 100 feet above the waterline."

The oil has stained a 1.8-mile long stretch of the river from where it entered the twisting San Juan in northwestern New Mexico to Copper Canyon.

The crude petroleum spilled from a ruptured Texas-New Mexico Co. pipeline Oct. 9 and left a trail through 1,000 foot deep canyons and across isolated sandbars bordering the river.

Filer church honors four

FILER — A potluck family dinner was held following Sunday morning's service at the First Baptist Church.

The dinner was a farewell for Mrs. Dorothy Urie and three children who are moving to Texas. The event was arranged by the social committee and the young adults Sunday School class.

Open house at the newly redecorated nursery was also held during the day.

MOSCOW (UPI) — A general amnesty will be declared shortly to mark the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the USSR, Communist sources said today.

The jubilee will be observed Dec. 30 at special ceremonies in Moscow in the presence of the top leaders of all the Communist countries except China and Albania. High level representatives of non-Communist powers will also be invited to attend.

The last Soviet amnesty was declared Oct. 31, 1967 on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The 1967 amnesty, like all previous ones, applied to ordinary misdemeanors and felonies and did not affect acts described as "especially dangerous crimes against the state."

Beneficiaries included persons serving two years and some categories of persons sentenced to up to five years such as women with children under 17, decorated or disabled war veterans, pregnant women, men over 60, women over 55 and those who were under 16 when the crime was committed.

Other persons serving sentences of more than two years had their terms reduced by one-half.

Also sentences not involving imprisonment were canceled and investigation of minor offenses was discontinued.

The amnesty did not apply to political crimes such as anti-Soviet propaganda. For this reason writers Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel who had been sentenced to seven and five years respectively for publishing anti-Soviet satire abroad were not released.

Fix-up pace on schedule

TWIN FALLS — Remodeling at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital to expand surgery and laboratory facilities is 38 per cent complete.

R. W. Pierce, building committee chairman, told hospital board members Monday night the construction program is on schedule and a number of the phases will be completed by Nov. 15. He said the final phases are 38 per cent finished with 37 per cent of the contract time used.

Hospital board members approved a nine-month cost analysis of all departments of the hospital to determine if the institution is operating within limitations of phase 2 of the President's program.

James Rosenbaum, assistant administrator, told the board the auditors have recommended the study be completed shortly as a guideline in preparing the 1973 budget.

He said the budget cannot be set until salaries and rates for the coming year are determined and these cannot be changed unless it is determined they will fall within the phase 2 guidelines.

The tentative budget must be ready for review by Nov. 3, Rosenbaum said. He also reported on the computer system now in use in the hospital auditing department. He said it is working well and with some minor adjustments in the method of operation by accounting employees, it will do the job as anticipated.

Gary Ford, vice president of the manufacturing firm, met with hospital employees last week.

It was also reported the hospital accreditation survey has been completed and a report is expected by the November hospital board meeting.

Fund ceiling stalls solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mounting controversy over a compromise $250 billion ceiling in government spending threatened today to postpone further the already-delayed adjournment of the 92nd Congress.

"Why, the President could close down the Capitol," protested Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., as lawmakers pored over the compromise, under which President Nixon could cut most outlays at will.

The bill was drafted in a huddle between House and Senate negotiators, with advice of administration officials, as congressional leaders sought in vain to wind up the two year session Saturday night.

Final House and Senate votes on this and another last-minute compromise on welfare and Social Security finally were put off until this week with the revised aim of adjourning not later than Wednesday.

The House today had first crack at both bills and was expected to pass them despite rising protests from school interests and others that Nixon could use his proposed budget cutting power not only to cut but to eliminate whole programs.

But senators, in preliminary debate as details of the compromise settlement became generally known, made it plain they will not buy the package without extended debate and possibly may reject it outright.

Mathias was not the only senator of the President's party protesting the compromise language, which he said disregarded Senate insistence on limiting the President's budget cutting powers to no more than 10 per cent in any one program.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, who drafted the limited ceiling version originally approved by the Senate, also assailed the bill in its revised form, contending it violated the constitutional separation of powers between Congress and the executive branch.

TF seeks burglars

TWIN FALLS — City police in Twin Falls were investigating two burglary reports today.

Danny Peak, Twin Falls, told officers someone broke into his parked automobile Sunday night and took a tape player. The equipment was valued at $40. His vehicle was parked on the Dutch's Furniture lot when the theft occurred.

Jerilyn Bli, 530 Cindy Drive, told officers someone entered the unlocked home where she resides and took $100 in cash from her room. The theft occurred sometime between last Thursday and Monday, she said.

Panther raider acquittal asked

CHICAGO (UPI) Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, arguing for immediate acquittal in the Black Panther police raid case, said Monday the prosecution had not "one shred of evidence" of a conspiracy among himself and his 13 codefendants.

The 51-year-old prosecutor was the only defendant to present his own argument for acquittal. Attorneys for the 13 other defendants made the same request of Circuit Court Judge Philip J. Romiti, and the prosecution was to argue against the defense motion today.

Hanrahan, an aide and 12 Chicago policemen have been on trial since July 10 on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice after the Dec. 4, 1969, police raid in which two Panther leaders were killed.

"I have sat here for 13 long weeks in silence, and it certainly hasn't been easy," Hanrahan said. "I and the others have been waiting to hear one shred of evidence of conspiracy — and I haven't heard it."

Hanrahan said the prosecution had based its case on "perjured statements" from the Panthers who survived the raid. He said the prosecution's case "self-destructed" when they discovered four weeks into the trial that the Panthers had allegedly admitted to their lawyers they fired guns during the raid. (The Panthers denied the statements on the stand.)

TF airs program for Dierkes Lake

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Youth Advisory Commission report on plans for Dierkes Lake development was presented to the Twin Falls City Council Monday night.

Bob Wilkams, chairman; Jane Lewis, secretary, and Stephanie Parker, who painted a pictorial map showing how the advisory board would like to see the lake area developed, met with the council.

The young commission members included in their plans development of parking area, dead-ending of pavement for greater safety for children and picnickers, playground equipment for younger and older children, barbecue pits, picnic tables, swimming, an expanded beach and docking area for motorless boats, and modernized restroom facilities.

City Manager Jean Milar suggested to the council that the map and accompanying explanation be included in the city's master plan which will be presented to the state and federal government in attempts to obtain funding for park expansion.

In other action, the council:

- Appointed Mrs. Otto (Mary Alice) Florence to the library board, replacing Mrs. Betty McRoberts who has resigned.
- Adopted a workable program for the city of Twin Falls.
- Authorized reserving parking space for the League of Women Voters and closure of Main Avenue for a short period of time during the dedication of the downtown mall Friday, Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus will appear and be introduced by Mayor John Christofferson.

- Rejected a request by the Young Republicans Organization to reserve parking space on the mall Friday. Council member Mike Gray said he did not feel the city should become involved in a politically partisan move during the dedication day.
- Set a hearing for the Nov. 20 council meeting to receive comments from the public on the environmental effects of a secondary sewage treatment plant.
- Was asked to attend a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at KTFI Radio regarding the 1972 revenue sharing information program.
- Authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign an agreement with Hamilton and Bowler, Pocatello, to provide engineering services to the city for the secondary sewage treatment facilities.
- Referred to the planning and zoning commission a citizen request to amend the zoning ordinance to reduce the set-back required on mobile home parks.
- Okayed a three-month extension before Ronald Schumaker must move his mobile home from a lot in Twin Falls.
- Requested the city attorney to prepare an ordinance dealing with condominiums. Hearings on the ordinance will be held at the Nov. 21 planning and zoning meeting and at the Dec. 4 council meeting.

Then Let Us Teach Them

1. The McGovernites have proposed that we solve the welfare problem by guaranteeing every one a minimum income. There is a tremendous difference between minimum welfare level and minimum annual income as proposed by liberal Democrats. Their approach is that a minimum income is a matter of right rather than welfare being a matter of need.
2. A totally new welfare program must contain an absolute work requirement without loopholes even if the government must assume the role of the employer of last resort whereby every able-bodied man will risk the loss of benefits if he turns down a reasonable job offer.
3. A return to the WPA programs of the 30's is not the answer. It may have alleviated an unemployment problem in those times, but in today's society we need job training that is meaningful. Job training programs must be focused toward skills and jobs that are in demand. Upon completion of the program, it must qualify trainees for gainful employment rather than reliance on more government make work projects.

"We all have compassion for those who are unable to provide for themselves and their families. I believe that we are all anxious to help such people.

But those who can work, should work. If it is a case of training or retraining, then let us teach them skills. There's great truth in the old saying, 'Give a man a fish and he'll eat for a day. Teach a man to fish and he'll eat for a lifetime.'"

REPUBLICAN
JIM McCLURE
Paid by McClure for Senate Committee — Hal Ryan, Chairman

Jim McClure will continue to work for a complete overhaul of the welfare system. Such a new program must replace, not supplement, the old. We have proved too many times that a mere revision does not work.

Thanks Teddy, for coming to Idaho. You were a big help.

Let's send a leader to the Senate.

Teenage Voters

Fears in Magic Valley circles that registration of voters under 21 heretofore ineligible to vote in Idaho would be so heavy as to swing the election appear to have been groundless.

Most political workers actively engaged in trying to get the newly-enfranchised voters to register and then to vote are openly disappointed by the results.

As the election nears, there is less evidence than originally shown in the polls that these younger voters will vote much differently from those of advanced years those over 21. There is no proof that the teenagers are not interested, merely new evidence that they are less alienated from the mainstream than many observers had feared.

Registering those over 18 to vote will undoubtedly have a longtime effect on the political pattern, but it is not going to be immediate, overwhelming or all one-sided. And as the 18-21 voters become accustomed to vote they will vote in about the same proportion as older voters and be influenced to a still greater degree by prevalent thinking. OAK

The Winter

Proof that this is a more blasé generation is widely regarded as evident in the decline of incessant conversation about the weather, which formerly assailed one as he went about his daily tasks and made it more difficult for him to engage in meaningful concentration.

This extends to the print media, too. Today there are fewer news stories about what some elderly codger thinks the approaching winter will be like, based on squirrels' tails, the early or late migration of birds or the state of his rheumatism. But there are some of these stories. And everyone reads them.

Anyway, why is it such a sure-fire proof of sophistication to pretend to ignore the weather or sophistication about it? Without weather the world would be in dire straits. In fact, it would really have an ecological problem to worry about.

Oh, yes, the winter. Not many goose-bone prophets have expressed an opinion, and when they are late with their forecasts, this really could be something to worry about.

By the way — how's your rheumatism? OAK

Skyscraper Contest

A new skyscraper boom seems to be settling upon metropolitan U.S.A. Whether it is a result of rising land prices in urban areas or a competitive drive to be the tallest is conjecturable.

Almost simultaneously announcements came from Atlanta that the world's tallest hotel, a 1,200-room, 70-story glass-plated tower, soon will be under construction, and New York's Empire State Building may get an 11-story addition.

The Atlanta announcement was quick to point out the 700-foot hotel would overshadow both the 650-foot Ukraine Hotel in Moscow and the 625-foot Waldorf Astoria in New York.

Plans for the Empire State Building are not yet definite, but that former queen of the skies is now surpassed by the 110-story towers of the World Trade Center in Manhattan and the 110-story Sears Tower in Chicago.

Adding 11 stories to the Empire State would elevate the structure to 113 stories — 44 feet taller than its nearest competitor.

Undoubtedly developers already are busily checking blueprints to see what they can do to exceed these goals. The drive to be the biggest among skyscrapers is an infatuation which knows few bounds.

OUR MAIL:

Today our mail runs about two-thirds various things and one-third politics. We wonder what we will have to read after the election is over? And speaking of elections — there will be the big Demo session here Friday night with Senator Church, Gov. Andrus and many more in the crowd — and then Vice-Pres. Agnew will be here next Monday, landing at the Twin Falls City-County Airport about 3:30 p.m., attending a $50 or so a plate banquet at the Turf Club and then speaking for free to a crowd at CSI.

CRYSTAL BALL

Economists are generally agreed that 1972 will show improvement over 1971 in business activity. But some are cautious about predicting next year's rate of economic growth.

Yet, several negative factors have appeared to justify some caution. If interest rates continue to rise, they could tend to choke business expansion. The threat of higher taxes as a result of continued federal deficit could act as a brake.

But there are strong positive factors to sustain the momentum well into next year. The intention of consumers, business and government (particularly local government) is to spend at a higher rate next year for goods and services.

A further decline in unemployment, now off slightly, and new surveys confirming consumer intentions to step up their buying tempo would have a highly beneficial effect on the economic outlook.

BEING TECHNICAL

Many a voter must wonder, when he reads that a campaign committee brushes off charges of failure to adhere to all the provisions of the new law on contributions as "technical oversights," what response such charges will bring in future campaigns.

The new law is complicated, but campaign managers should become familiar with it before the next campaign rolls around. If not, enforcement of it should also become "technical."

WASHINGTON — George McGovern is touring the country, committed to the biggest gamble of his political career. He is going back to his original constituency — the antiwar young people who contributed the enthusiasm and dedication that made his nomination possible.

He has decided that the Vietnam War is his best issue, and thus he has again changed the course of his campaign. He is saying in effect that he is once again a "one-issue" candidate, after several busy months of trying to convince the electorate that there were other major differences between him and Richard Nixon. McGovern may be right: The question is whether the war is still enough of an issue to win him the Presidency.

From the very outset, the most militant and articulate opposition to the war has come from the young, most of them college students, older citizens also were seriously concerned, of course, and many of them provided leadership for the youthful activists. Lyndon Johnson could not have been hounded from office by the young alone; there had to be a strong national feeling that America's involvement in Vietnam had gone far enough. Older voters were needed to defeat Hubert Humphrey, seen as a member of the Johnson war-making administration — four years ago. But times have changed. Although President Nixon has resumed the bombing of North Vietnam, he has also withdrawn more than a half million troops from the war zone. He has mined North Vietnamese harbors, but he has pursued peace negotiations with an offer to settle on terms all the polls say are considered reasonable by most Americans. Nixon may not have defused the war issue, but he has quieted some of the antiwar clamor.

Indeed, even the campuses have turned peaceful, even somnolent. In part, this is due to Nixon's actions in ending the draft and barring the use of draftees in Vietnam. The war is not as much of a personal matter with the students as it was four years ago. They are still antiwar, but they don't spend all their days demonstrating against it.

Furthermore, there are signs that McGovern has lost ground among young people. He is no longer the unanimous choice of the 18-to-25 group because of the attrition produced by the exigencies of a national campaign. Some have become disillusioned with McGovern because of the Eagleton affair, others because he has seemed to shift to the center, others because he has made peace with Chicago's Dick Daley and Lyndon Johnson.

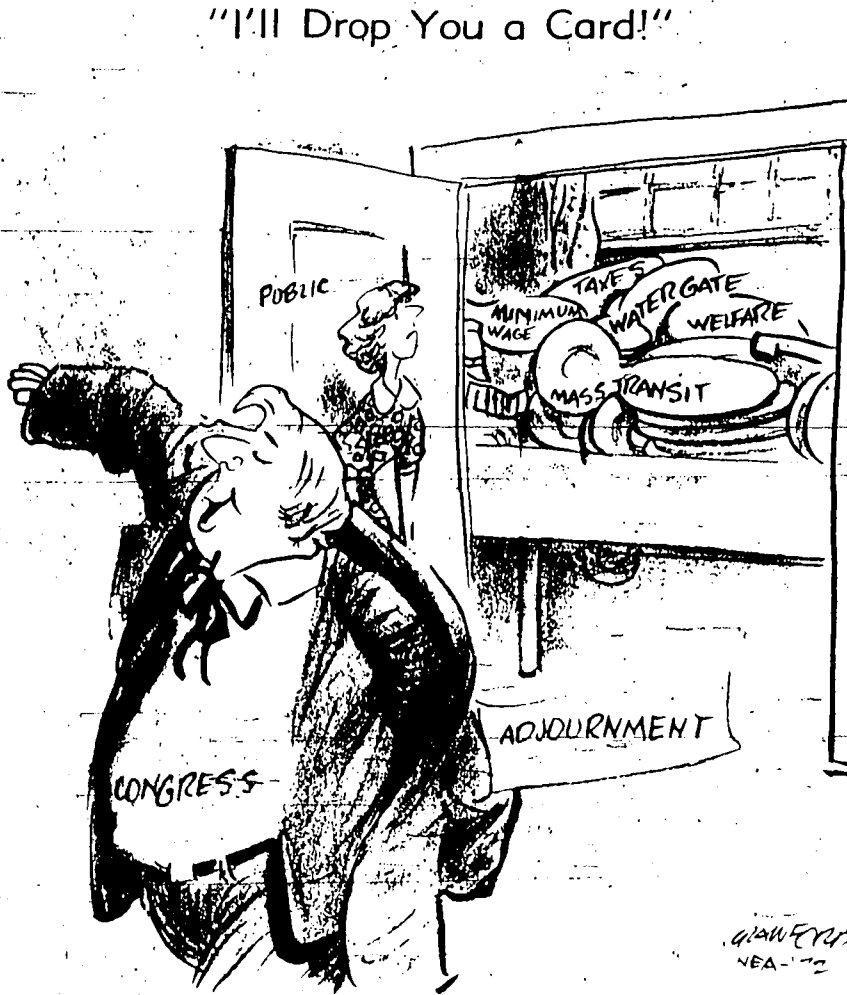

McGovern had suffered defections among young people even in neighborhoods where his strength was greatest during the primaries. A New York Times survey revealed that "thousands" of college students in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut — an area generally considered the center of liberalism — have been turned off by McGovern's Presidential campaign.

Thus, as McGovern steps up his appeal to the campuses, he has no assurance there are enough votes among college students to make his strenuous efforts worthwhile. He has less than three weeks to win back the defectors, and he can't even work full time at the task lest he squander his chances among the great mass of older voters.

Still, the die is cast, and McGovern has gone whole hog. His peace plan should find no quibblers even among the most militant in the antiwar movement. In vowing to pull out completely from Indochina and adopt a policy of noninterference in Vietnam, he has in effect accepted in toto the demands of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

The South Dakotans had no alternative, of course. Having decided to go for broke on the war issue, he had to draw the sharpest possible line between his position and Richard Nixon's. He could not afford to fuff up his play with any shilly-shallying about conditions. Very good. He has offered the voters a choice, which is what a Presidential election should be all about.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

No-Party South

RICHMOND, Va. — Despite new calamities inflicted on Virginia's bedraggled Democratic party by the McGovern campaign, Republicans are still far from political domination here — a situation typifying widespread breakdown of party politics in the south.

Virginia's Republican party, though incomparably healthier and better suited to the state's conservative climate than the Democrats, has not filled the vacuum caused by the Democratic collapse. The political confusion here is measured by the possibility that the two leading prospects for governor in 1973 — former Gov. Mills Godwin (conservative) and Lt. Gov. Henry Howell (liberal) — may both run as independents.

Virginia represents, perhaps in exaggerated form, transitional political conditions throughout the South. The fading one-party system, given its death blow by the McGovern catastrophe, is being replaced temporarily by a no-party system, thanks partly to President Nixon's non-support for Southern Republicanism.

Clearly, the Virginia Democrats are at low ebb. With liberals having taken control, the Democratic party is in danger of becoming a permanent minority of blacks, labor leaders and the college campus. That danger has become reality in Sen. George McGovern's campaign.

McGovern's high command has ignored the liberals running the party and inserted his own inexperienced agents. State Democratic chairman Joe Fitzpatrick, a veteran of many Virginia campaigns, was passed over because he did not support McGovern before Miami Beach So. the outsiders and post-adolescents in charge for McGovern here, have not even generated McGovern's own constituency. The black turnout in Norfolk, for example, may be 33 per cent below 1968.

McGovern operatives unfamiliar with Virginia have pulled off a series of blunders, such as sending strident women's lib activist Gloria Steinem into the decorous Old Dominion this week. Moreover, the young McGovern state coordinator imported from Washington, D.C., Harley Daniels, was transferred last week to presumably more promising Connecticut. Just when he was beginning to learn something about Virginia, a bitter Virginia McGovernite told us.

The upshot? Not only a prospective Nixon landslide but further evidence that national Democrats write off the South. "George McGovern may set us back 20 years," confided a prominent Virginia liberal. Howell, elected lieutenant governor as a liberal independent last year, intends to run for governor as an independent, not a Democrat, partly because of the McGovernite stigma on the Democratic party.

Though the Republican party holds six of Virginia's ten Congressional seats and may pick up a seventh, the overall GOP picture is not satisfactory. Republicans probably will lose the U.S. Senate race here this year, their third straight statewide defeat. More important, many prominent Republicans want to forego fielding a Republican for governor next year and instead back Godwin, the last Democratic governor of Virginia, as a conservative independent.

The conventional wisdom in Republican circles is to blame all this on Gov. Lynwood Holton, Virginia's first Republican governor since Reconstruction. Holton's patronage policies and statewide candidate selections, say his critics, stunted party growth.

How serious is this defect? Is the treatment long and expensive? Or can it be taken care with corrective shoes? Is it possible that, if we keep reminding her to turn her toes out, she would improve?

We also have a 4-year-old who seems to "throw" her foot the same way her sister did at that age. Could this be corrected more easily at an early age? B.E.D.

It's not a dangerous condition so far as health is concerned, but it causes an awkward, ungainly gait. Having it corrected is worth-while for the child as she grows up. After she is grown, there is no easy way of making the correction.

Pigeon-toeing results from tension on certain muscles that cause the feet to toe in. Position during sleep can be a factor in some youngsters.

The correction is not rapid, but neither is it expensive except in terms of time and patience. Special shoes, massage, and a reminder to toe out.

I would do as your pediatrician has suggested — see an orthopedist. And since the earlier correction is made the better, I would have him examine the younger girl, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed is 25 cents and a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for a booklet on triglycerides. C.L.B.

Pigeon-Toed

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just been told that my daughter, 6-1/2, is pigeon-toed. Our pediatrician told my husband he would make an appointment with a bone specialist if we liked.

How serious is this defect? Is the treatment long and expensive? Or can it be taken care with corrective shoes? Is it possible that, if we keep reminding her to turn her toes out, she would improve?

We also have a 4-year-old who seems to "throw" her foot the same way her sister did at that age. Could this be corrected more easily at an early age? B.E.D.

No booklet on just that, but triglycerides and discussion of diet is included in the booklet, "Control Cholesterol Sensibly."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do not doctors prescribe nicotinic acid to aid circulation? Since it belongs to the vitamin B-complex group, I cannot see how it would be harmful.

My sister suffers from failing eyesight due, the specialist said, to poor circulation, yet he did not prescribe any medication to help her. Her condition is getting serious and I wonder if nicotinic acid would help her. Mrs. R.W.

Doctors do prescribe nicotinic acid to improve circulation — in cases in which it will help. Some cases cannot be helped by it. I am sure the specialist would have told your sister to use it if he thought it would help her. Some eye problems are slowly progressive and it is impossible to stop the process.

If it will set your mind more at ease, ask the doctor whether nicotinic acid would help.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope, 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Grass Roots: Still With Us

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

JEROME — Politics is such a big business in the last third of the 20th century that it's nice to have a reminder of what "grass roots" really means.

In Jerome, they haven't forgotten, not for all the news stories about wheat scandals, Watergate buggings, campaign contribution laws or even the cost of bombing in Southeast Asia.

The Democratic Central Committee of Jerome sponsored a candidates' dinner this week and it was a throwback to the days when a candidate really met the home folks, pressed the flesh and talked singly with voters without a screen of advisers, press aides and position papers.

Real honest-to-goodness turkey and ham dinner with all the fixings held in the high school cafeteria with the dishwasher running too loudly when the main candidates began to speak and the person with the right table napkin getting the centerpiece from the head table.

Real nice time, get to speak with old friends, see the candidate before he either is elected and disappears behind the high backed chairs and the glassed doors in Congress or else goes back home to try and forget the campaign that was lost, the turkey and ham dinners he had to suffer and all the people he had to meet in the trying.

But it was all there in Jerome, starting from the invocation asking His blessing on the gathered, on down to the singing of the Star Spangled Banner without piano accompaniment, right on through the dinner, served buffet style, the young folksingers providing after-dinner entertainment while the meal was being digested and the pep talks from the candidates who at this point aren't so much looking for votes (these are the party faithful) as looking for friends of votes.

Leon Aslett, the county chairman, read telegrams from the governor and senator, the state's two highest Democratic elected officials, and the crowd of 100 diners loved the gesture. In a more cynical place, perhaps, it would not be inconceivable to assume that it was the easiest way for the high officials to keep the faceless voters happy with minimal effort but there in the Jerome High School cafeteria, the messages had a ring of real concern.

After the dinner was over, and the introductions of the local legislative candidates completed, Charlie and Lynn Correll, two Jerome singers, put on their very nice, very appropriate act.

Then the main attractions, the candidates for the Congress and the Senate. Short speeches, both of them, the candidate for the House of Representatives in his excited, earnest, committed language, the senator would-be in his style of low-key Idaho humor, the effective one liners, and a brief stop on the major issues before sitting down again to the applause of the committee.

That finished, the folks began circulating again, some of them buttonholing the two candidates ("I just wanted to meet you") most of them flashed with the spirit of the occasion that makes it possible to believe that, tonight, here, the people make a difference, and nothing that ever happens after, not victory or defeat, can change that.

George flails Nixon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—George McGovern today charged President Nixon's re-election campaign with "sabotage and subversion." McGovern's top political aide said the Republicans were panicking three weeks before the election.

Sweeping through Texas from the state house to the Alamo—McGovern intensified his attacks on Nixon, charging that his campaign has hired 50 saboteurs to steal files, wiretap private conversations and disrupt the Democratic presidential campaign.

"These ambitious men will apparently stop at nothing to preserve their own power," McGovern said in a statement issued before he left for his last Texas stop today, Fort Worth. He will be back in Washington tonight.

"They would undermine the republic to save their White House parking spaces," he said. "When voters are denied the opportunity to make an informed choice because the information is poisoned by sabotage and subversion, they are denied the most basic freedom of all—the freedom to choose leaders who will best serve their interests."

Frank Mankiewicz, national director for McGovern's campaign, said that the refusal of Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign manager, to answer questions at a news conference Monday, was "astonishing" and added it "shows either fear or panic, and probably both."

MacGregor accused McGovern and the Washington Post Monday of "some of the dirtiest tactics and some of the most offensive language" ever seen in a presidential campaign.

McGovern tactics assailed as dirty

By United Press International
Spokesmen for President Nixon have accused Sen. George S. McGovern of "some of the dirtiest tactics and most offensive language" ever witnessed in a presidential campaign. McGovern said the Republicans hired 50 persons to sabotage the Democratic campaign.

While McGovern and officials of the Nixon campaign exchanged verbal blows Monday, the President made a surprise visit to the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, holding its third annual convention in Washington.

Nixon said he never forgets the prisoners or their families and remembers them in his prayers. "We shall not agree to any settlement which imposes a Communist government upon the people of Vietnam. We shall, under no circumstances, abandon our POWs and MIAs," said Nixon.

The President said the fate of the POWs can not be left "to the good will of the enemy," apparently in reference to McGovern's proposal to withdraw immediately from Vietnam and trust the Communists to release captured Americans.

McGovern, who carried his campaign to Texas Monday, said that the GOP hired 50 espionage agents to sabotage the Democratic campaign and conduct "some of the shabbiest undercover operations in the history of American politics."

The Democratic presidential nominee did not offer evidence to document his charge, but said that Nixon "sent his agents to literally destroy the fabric of the opposition party."

Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign manager, said in a statement that McGovern "frustrated" by his failure to close the public opinion poll gap with Nixon was lashing out in "politics of desperation."

Racial brawls involve seamen

HONOLULU (UPI)—The racial clash aboard the USS Kitty Hawk began as a fight in the ship's mess deck and escalated into a series of roving brawls that lasted until the next morning, the Navy said Monday. More than 100 persons were involved and 46 were injured, a spokesman said.

In a prepared statement, the Navy said the brawls involved a series of "altercations between black and white crew members" Oct. 12 and 13.

A spokesman for the commander in chief of the Pacific said the "confrontations occurred in various places" on the aircraft carrier, which is off the coast of North Vietnam.

Three crewmen were injured so badly they were flown to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines for "specialized treatment." The Navy said it wouldn't release their names because the men had asked not to be identified.

The Navy said the roving series of brawls did not interrupt the carrier's task of conducting air strikes against targets in North Vietnam.

"There have been no disturbances aboard the ship since the initial series of events," the prepared statement said.

A three-man task force was flown from Honolulu to the ship, operating in "Yankee Station," to "review all aspects of the incident."

The Navy said no charges have been filed "at this time" and said no one was "placed on confinement."

The investigation continued, headed by Capt. Frank S. Haak, chief of staff for carrier division five.

Shriver hits Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sargent Shriver said today he thought President Nixon had mismanaged the American economy worse than any president since Herbert Hoover.

Appearing on the CBS Morning News program the Democratic vice-presidential hopeful expressed his belief that the election of the Democratic slate next month "can happen," but addressed himself mainly to economic matters.

"I think the major issue is the gross mismanagement of the American economy," Shriver said. "Unemployment has doubled under Richard Nixon. The cost of welfare has doubled under Richard Nixon. The number of people on welfare has doubled under Richard Nixon."

New N. Viet attacks predicted for S. Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—Military sources said today allied commanders expect a new wave of Communist attacks across South Vietnam this weekend in a campaign to influence the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential election.

The sources said intelligence reports indicate the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would launch the new offensive Friday or Saturday. They said the attacks were expected in all four of the country's military regions.

Allied commanders for the past several weeks have been predicting the Communist attacks, including one on Saigon, in a drive to discredit President Nixon's Vietnamization program. But today's disclosure was the first time specific dates for the attacks were cited.

Adm. Noel Gaylor, commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific, arrived in Saigon today for conferences with top U.S. officers. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the Army chief of staff and former commander in Vietnam, was due in Saigon Wednesday on a fact-finding mission for President Nixon.

South Vietnamese battlefields were generally quiet today, military spokesmen said, and monsoon rains over North Vietnam Monday curtailed U.S. bombing raids for a second consecutive day. U.S. B52 bombers dropped some 800 tons of explosives in continued heavy raids in areas around Saigon, the U.S. command said. Nine missions were carried out in the 24 hours ending at noon today over targets as close as 21 miles

Boston area gets refunds

BOSTON (UPI)—Gov. Francis W. Sargent meets today with representatives of the auto insurance industry in an effort to expedite the return of $37.6 million to motorists insured during 1971.

Insurance Commissioner John G. Ryan ordered the rebates last week.

The amount comprises excess profits earned by the industry on compulsory premiums during 1971, the first year of the Massachusetts no fault plan, which was the first of its kind in the nation.

Earlier this week, two major insurance companies said they would not challenge Ryan's order in court but would begin making out the rebates.

The Aetna Life and Casualty Co. of Hartford, Conn., announced Monday it would begin sending out rebate checks to its 170,000 policyholders in approximately three weeks.

from the "capital," spokesmen said.

A U.S. command communiqué said at least 230 tactical air strikes were carried out over the North. Eight B52 bomber missions also were reported above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

Navy jet fighter-bombers for the second consecutive day ripped into a fuel depot south of the port of Vinh and destroyed about 1,100 barrels of petroleum, spokesmen said. Attacks also were made on two major airfields.

Field reports said Communist units early today blocked Highway 1 outside the district town of Trang Bang, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, by blowing up three road culverts. Spokesmen also reported 20 Communist soldiers killed in fighting today about 16 miles north of the capital along Highway 14.

UPI correspondent Barney Seibert said traffic on Highway 1 was being diverted through adjacent rice paddies near Trang Bang but that Viet Cong snipers were positioned about 500 yards from the highway, which links Saigon and the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Military sources earlier today said government troops Monday reopened Highway 1 after it had been cut by Communist soldiers for four days.

UAW men return to plants

DETROIT (UPI)—The first round of the United Auto Workers' new quick-strike strategy appeared over with workers back on the job today at three General Motors Corp. plants.

Bargaining on unresolved issues, however, continued at all three plants while strike deadlines were set at three others. Possible walkouts at five more were under consideration.

Third shift employees returned to their jobs Monday night at the Fisher Body stamping plant at Mansfield, Ohio, ending a strike that began Friday at the plant that manufactures parts for nearly all of GM's cars.

Weekend walkouts also ended at General Motors Assembly Division (GMAD) plants at St. Louis, Mo., and Doraville, Ga.

At least two UAW strikes have been narrowly averted by last-minute resolutions reached after intense negotiations.

Filipinos arrested in plot

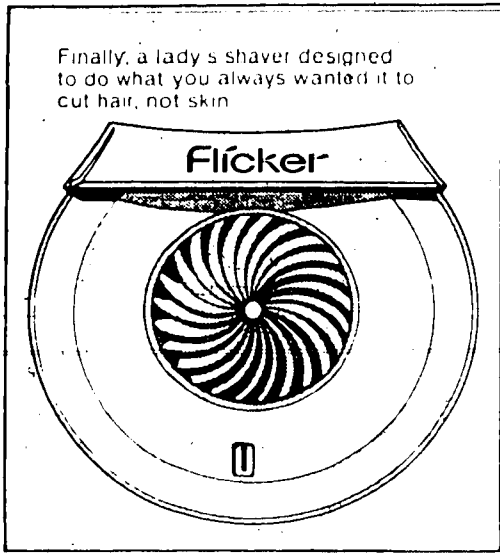

MANILA (UPI)—At least four persons including two foreigners have been arrested by military authorities for involvement in an alleged Communist assassination plot against President Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Philippine government announced today.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad told a news briefing a Filipino and a "non-Asian" foreigner were arrested several days ago while preparing to flee the country. He said a private aircraft and a boat were impounded.

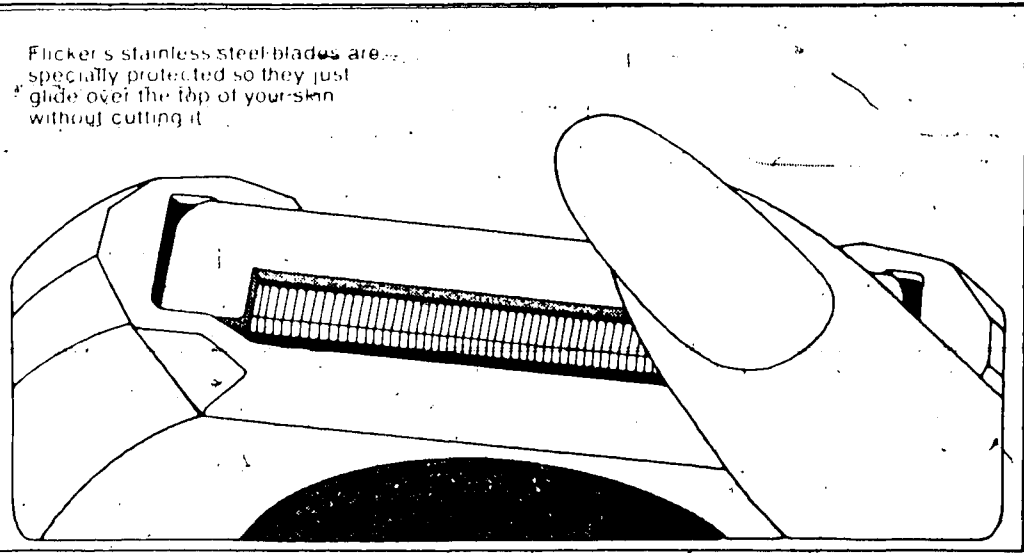

Earlier, Tatad said authorities arrested two persons aboard a "sound proof and bullet proof" vehicle parked inside the presidential Malacanang Palace ground. He said the vehicle contained sniper weapons, including a rifle with a telescopic sight, and was specially fitted with a window "enough to accommodate a machine gun or a sniper's rifle."

Federal office seekers campaign

By United Press International
With three weeks to go before the Nov. 7 general election, federal office seekers were on the campaign trail in Idaho talking about the role of federal government in education and welfare. Republican senate candidate

James McClure said in Nampa that Americans look at education more seriously than almost any other single factor in their child-raising responsibilities.

The U. S. representative from Payette said federal aid to education began modestly after the Second World War and has grown into a $20 billion a year program.

He said that when government sends money to states for education, federal control is usually not too far behind.

His opponent, Democrat William E. Davis, told Kellogg and Wallace residents that the welfare system of today is attempting to solve problems that are 40 years old.

The Pocatello Democrat said the goal of self-support and employment of welfare recipients may not be attainable, though, "if we don't provide the education necessary to develop skills and training needed to support oneself."

He said he advocated a return to public works concepts.

Steve Symms, the Republican candidate for First District U.S. representative, was blasted by two critics Monday for alleged inconsistency of his campaign for Congress.

State Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, said in Boise, "Symms says he wants to reduce government, yet he opposes the amendment to reduce Idaho government."

Symms' general election opponent, Democrat Ed Williams, lashed out at the Sunny Slope Republican for his stand on the sale of public lands.

"Steve Symms is now clearly trying to modify his long-held position that public lands be sold off to the highest bidder," he said.

"But nobody is fooled. As late as a week ago, at a land symposium in Boise, Symms was adamant about selling the land. And today he claims he really didn't mean it," Williams said.

1,985 cars recalled

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. is recalling 1,985 Plymouth Valiants and Dodge Darts, the first 1972 model cars to be involved in such a campaign to check them for possible steering defects.

The recall was announced Monday, but Chrysler said only about 10 percent of the cars involved in the campaign were actually suspected of having the defect.

In plant inspection, showed that the nut holding the center link to the steering arm on the vehicles in question may not have been adequately tightened during assembly, a Chrysler spokesman said.

This results in more play than is necessary in the steering wheel and could eventually lead to a loss of steering control, the spokesman said.

However, no accidents have been reported as a result of the defect, he said.

The Valiant and Dart, as well as Chrysler's other 1972 models, were introduced in dealer showrooms Sept. 26.

Jordan against debt bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said Monday he expected to vote against the conference report on the debt extension bill.

He said the House-approved bill contained a "25¢ billion limitation on spending for fiscal 1973, but it was defective in that it gave the President complete discretion" not only as to which programs to cut, but how deep to cut each in order to comply with the limitation.

He said that authority is "an unjustifiable encroachment upon the appropriate powers of Congress."

Jordan said the Senate improved the spending limitation by adopting his amendment which would require a proportional reduction of all departmental spending, except for certain irreducible programs.

He said it had a further limitation that no individual program could be cut in excess of 10 percent.

However, the Congress greatly watered down the Jordan amendment making it more of a farce than an exercise of congressional powers.

"I am not willing to surrender even a part of the appropriate powers of the Congress to this president or any president," he said.

Woman wins top honors

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Singer Loretta Lynn became the first woman ever to win country music's entertainer of the year award Monday night and chided her husband for skipping the event to go hunting.

"The only thing I'm sad about is that my husband has gone hunting and couldn't make it tonight," Miss Lynn told a national television audience.

Miss Lynn, a coal miner's daughter who staged a benefit performance last year for the widows and children of a Kentucky mine disaster, also was named female vocalist of the year and shared the vocal duo of the year award with Conway Twitty.

Charley Pride, the only black singer to reach prominence in country music, was named male vocalist of the year for the second year in a row.

Former Louisiana Gov. Jimmy Davis, best known for the song "You Are My Sunshine," was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Donna Fargo, a former California school teacher and a relative newcomer to country music, was honored for her single of the year, "The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A."

The song of the year was Freddie Hart's "Fast-Loving." Charlie McCoy, who brought the harmonica back to country music, was named instrumentalist of the year.

The Statler Brothers, whose big record was "Class of '57," were named the vocal group of the year.

For the fourth straight year, Danny Davis and his Nashville Brass were named instrumental group of the year.

Merle Haggard, was honored for his album of the year, "Let Me Tell You About a Song."

Defense studies Sutter records

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The Juan Corona jury remained absent today while defense attorney Richard Hawk poured over more Sutter County sheriff's department records ordered provided for him by the court.

In response to Hawk's complaints that he was being deprived of all the prosecution's evidence in the mass murder case, Sheriff Roy Whiteaker was directed to turn over all his files to the defense.

The 38-year-old Corona, a Yuba City, Calif., farm labor contractor, is on trial for hacking to death 25 farm workers found buried in orchard graves last year.

Hawk, after his first full day of sifting through a filing cabinet crammed with reports, complained that he already has found more than 100 police documents on the case which he hadn't seen before.

Before the review of records began, Superior Court Judge Richard Patton excused the 10-man, two-woman jury and four alternates and ordered them to return Wednesday when testimony in the six-week-old trial is expected to resume.

The prosecution is only partially through the first phase of its 10-phase case against Corona, whose attorney is preparing a motion to have him freed on bail for the duration of the trial.

Hawk, who has dominated the opening weeks of the trial, was expected to make the formal bail motion before the end of the week.

Treaty ratified

BONN (UPI) — The East German Volkskammer (parliament) ratified Monday a treaty with West Germany that will make it possible for East Germans to pass through the Berlin Wall for the first time since the Communists erected it in 1961 to stem the tide of refugees fleeing to the West.

Already some opponents of Chancellor Willy Brandt's Eastern policies were expressing skepticism about East German promises to allow personal visits across the wall in connection with the new traffic treaty.

Now we will just have to wait and see how the GDR (German Democratic Republic) fulfills its pledge to make it easier for West German citizens to enter the GDR," said opposition Christian Democrat Johann-Baptist Gradl of Berlin.

The East German Volkskammer ratified the traffic agreement Monday and the ratification documents were to be exchanged in Bonn at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EDT) today.

The West German parliament ratified the treaty, the first international agreement between the two countries before it adjourned.

Health fee hike slated by U of I

POCATELLO (UPI) — Permission to raise student health fees at the University of Idaho will be among requests before the Idaho Board of Education Thursday and Friday at Idaho State University.

Agendas of the state's four institutions of higher learning will be acted upon, according to Board President M.T. Deaton, Pocatello, who said members will also meet with the Legislative Budget and Fiscal Committee Saturday morning.

U of I officials are asking that the present student health care fee of $12.50 be raised to $19.50 per semester in the spring of 1973, and the summer school fee from $6 to $8.

US proposes IBM breakup

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Justice Department in a major antitrust action asked Monday that International Business Machines (IBM) be broken up into several discrete, separate, independent and competitively balanced entities.

The government brief, the latest move in a 3-year-old suit against the world's largest computer manufacturer, is considered the most important antitrust action since the 1911 order to break up Standard Oil Co.

IBM said in its answering brief that the Justice Department "consistently failed to comply with agreements reached with officials of both the Nixon and Johnson administrations. The agreements, IBM said, were that the company would have the opportunity to negotiate before being slapped with an antitrust suit.

Nonetheless, the Johnson administration filed the suit Jan. 17, 1969—its last business day, IBM contended. The day before that, it said, then Attorney General Ramsey Clark agreed at a meeting with IBM executives that "the government might well not have sufficient or complete information as to the nature" of the matter, the company said.

The Justice Department said it sought "divestiture relief designed to dissipate the enormous market power of the current IBM computer manufacturing and marketing structure."

It asked for the "formation of the total domestic and international computer systems facilities of IBM into several discrete, separate, independent and competitively balanced entities capable of competing successfully in domestic and international markets with one another and with other domestic and foreign competitors."

In addition, it asked that IBM be prohibited from marketing its computer systems and support services by using package deals. The firm should be stopped from price discrimination and from announcing new computer products before those are developed, since both practices hinder competition, the suit said.

IBM argues that there are 2,500 companies offering computers and hardware and a variety of computer services. Because of that, the company said, there can be no real basis to the government's charge that IBM has a monopoly.

IBM had a net income of $305.7 million for the first three months of this year. The computer business is easily among the world's fastest growing.

EAGLE SCOUT rank was conferred on three members of Boy Scout Troop 68, sponsored by Immanuel Lutheran Church, at a court of honor. Advancing to that rank were (from left) Ted Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Patterson; Gary Meier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Meier, and Steve Balsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Balsch. All have been members of the troop since 1969 and either have held or now hold various troop offices.

Hotel blast kills pair

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Police sought two missing Argentine guests of the Sheraton Hotel today in the investigation of a terrorist bombing Monday which killed a Canadian tourist and wounded her husband and a Massachusetts woman.

Authorities tentatively blamed the explosion on followers of exiled strongman Juan D. Peron who observe "Loyalty Day" today to mark their enduring allegiance to the man who ruled this country from 1945 to 1956.

Snoopy toy-maker sued

NEW YORK (UPI)—United Features Syndicate, which owns the copyright for the Peanuts comic strip, charged Monday that a toy company had infringed on the copyright by selling stuffed dogs resembling Snoopy, the button-nosed beagle of the strip.

"This is one of several suits we will be filing against infringers of the Charlie Brown and Peanuts gang," said Bill Ravenscroft, vice president for licensing of United Features.

The suit was filed in federal district court against the Fable Toy Co. of New York.

Homecoming set at Hagerman HS

HAGERMAN — A full schedule of events mark "homecoming" at Hagerman High School this week.

High school students' attire will take on a different aspect, as special days have been assigned as "Grubbies Day," "Tash Day," "Dress Up Day," and "Orange and Black Day," when all students must wear the school colors.

The "spirit" bonfire, snake dance and pep rally will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

A parade will be at 12:30 p.m. Friday in the downtown area of Hagerman with all classes and organizations participating.

During the afternoon a special pep assembly will be held when the "Player of the Week" will be announced and a special award will go to the class showing the most school spirit during the week.

Following the football game at 8 p.m. with the Murtaugh Devils, there will be a dance in the Prince Memorial Gymnasium honoring the homecoming queen who will be crowned at half-time events during the ball game.

Homecoming queen candidates selected by the members of the H Club are Van Nessa Dixon and Amy Leffeldt, both seniors, and Richelle Anderson, a junior.

Mud cascades menace Big Sur

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI)—A new cascade of mud and debris from a summer forest fire oozed into this Pacific Coast resort village Monday, while officials feared the worst was yet to come because of more pounding rains.

Heavy showers fell sporadically during the day and night over the stricken area, while weather forecasters said no letup was in sight.

An estimated 80,000 tons of mud and debris was poised above the village and officials said another heavy rainstorm could bring it crashing down.

District ranger Dick Harrell of the U.S. Forest Service said an estimated 12,000 tons of debris had washed into Big Sur and over the coast highway, which was closed again in the fourth day of landslides.

British target for UDA hatred

BELFAST (UPI)—British army vehicles ran down and killed two Protestants during a rioting in Belfast Monday night and a Protestant paramilitary force immediately condemned the British as "our enemies."

The British army and the British government are now our enemies," the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) said in a statement after the two Protestants were hit by army vehicles.

The UDA today claimed it was responsible for an explosion which demolished a fertilizer factory in Carrigans in the neighboring Irish Republic. The UDA said fertilizer from the factory was being supplied to the IRA to make explosives. Another bomb exploded in an automobile in the town of Clois in the Irish Republic, seriously injuring a 29-year-old man.

The UDA, the Protestant counterpart of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), said it will throw its support behind calls for a unilateral declaration of independence from Britain unless home rule is restored in Northern Ireland.

Officers elected

GLENN'S FERRY — Mrs. Earl Ellis has been re-elected president of the Glenns Ferry Senior Citizens.

The new officers were seated at the Monday meeting. Mrs. C. B. Hathaway was elected vice-president, Mrs. Merle McFadden, secretary-treasurer Mrs. F. F. Murphy and Mrs. Mae Burgess were named to the auditing committee.

Plans were made to install a gas water heater and a gas range in the old Glenns Ferry Cannery building, which is being converted into a meeting place for the group.

Ralph Hall, Glenns Ferry, received the bid for installing the gas heater.

Teaching program reviewed

FILER — The steering committee of the Teacher Corps program now in process in the Filer Elementary School met for a luncheon meeting Monday.

Dr. Don Jeanroy, college of education, Idaho State University, showed a film, "To Touch a Child," at the school following the luncheon in the school cafeteria.

Committee members present included Mrs. Grant Hall, Mrs. Don Lierman, Mrs. Tom Sharp, Mrs. Roy Watson, Mrs. Bill Bunce, Mrs. Joyce Harding, Bill Heaps, principal at the school, and Ray Baker, superintendent of Filer School District.

Many forms of adult education in Filer were discussed by the committee, as well as the needs of the all-age group, which includes youth through the aged citizens of the community.

Another luncheon meeting has been scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Oct. 30 at the school. The public is invited to attend if citizens would like to be a part of the early stages of planning for the community program.

Filer aide at meeting

FILER — Ellen Morical, head of the Teachers Corps Program at the Filer Elementary School, attended an individualization teaching program at the Moreland Elementary School today.

Also attending the all-day program at the school were her four interns in the program, Mrs. Joyce Harding, Sue Ellen Lammers, Marjorie Short and Lois Cammack, and Mrs. Roy Watson, lay coordinator for the community phase of the program.

Hailey cycle racing meet results listed

HAILEY — Almost 70 racers competed in a moto-cross Sunday, conducted in conjunction with the Wood River Recreation Association dedication of its new facilities.

The races were marred by only one injury. Mike Zoll, 13, Hailey, sustained a broken arm during the first lap of the first race of the day.

Sponsored by the Wood River Cycle Association, the moto-cross featured four classes with novice and expert in each class. Trophies were awarded to the top 30 per cent winners in each event.

Winners included: Powder puff: First, Mia Carroll; Sun Valley; and second, Twyla Farmer. Ketchum Mini-bikes: First, Richard Bean, 11, Rupert; and second, Jimmy Phillips, 11, Rupert.

Shoshone couple observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

SHOSHONE — Mr. and Mrs. George Eden were honored by their family at open house Sunday for their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

A potluck dinner was served at their home in Gooding, with family members and friends attending from Boise, Declo, Shoshone, Gooding, Twin Falls, Salmon and Nebraska.

The open house was held during the afternoon at the First Christian Church, Gooding.

The serving table was covered with a lace over gold. The three-tiered cake and smaller cakes were made by Mrs. Vernon Hall.

Decorations were gold roses, yellow forget-me-nots and white doves with the wedding cake topped with a gold wreath, love doves and 50th wedding decorations borrowed for the event from Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins, Gooding.

Senior Ladies Aid members were in charge of the kitchen arrangements and assisted members of the family with serving and the guest book. Mrs. Ed Cooper, Potomato, was in charge of a second table.

A money tree made by Mrs. Dale Eden, gifts and cards were presented to the couple.

Children of the couple include Merl Eden, Twin Falls; Jack Eden, Salmon; Dale Eden, North Shoshone; Mrs. Joe Cooper, Boise, and Mrs. Floyd Ricks, Shoshone.

Special out-of-town guests were Eden's aunt, Mrs. Lena Steele, Boise; his brother, Harry Eden, Shoshone; his sister, Mrs. Earl Elam, Boise; sister, Mrs. Roy Gaston, Fairbury, Neb.; cousins, Fern Schneider, Ravenna, Neb., and niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Garber, Kansas City, Mo.

Other special guests were Mrs. Eden's sister, Mrs. Wanda Rose, Declo, and step-sister, Mrs. Grace Johansen, Gooding.

Many friends and relatives attended from the Magic Valley and Boise areas.

TF club donates

A $1,250 donation to the special education school at Robert Stuart Junior High School was made by the Twin Falls Junior Club. Larry Lewis, head teacher and physical education instructor, accepts the check from Mrs. Tom Schafer, club treasurer and chairman of the tour of homes which provided the funds. Kelly Moore and Cathy Hughes are shown in the background working out on a trampoline similar to one to be purchased with the funds. The funds also will be used to set up a yearly swimming program for the special education students.

What's happened to 'funny stuff'?

NEW YORK (UPI) — What has happened to funny stuff in America? Where has it all gone? There don't seem to be any gags being passed around among friends or on the streets. Thigh-slapping stories, once in plentiful supply, have dwindled down to a precious few.

You don't have people like Fred Allen going to the West Coast and remarking in conversation: "California is a fine place to live, if you're an orange."

Or Robert Benchley, who had a running bonhomie with his bank, paying off at a party at 4 o'clock one morning and signing the check: "Dear bank, having wonderful time, wish you were here. Bob."

Or Joe Frisco, the stuttering comic, taking a friend to his hotel room and phoning the desk clerk: "I have a complaint. There's two people in this room and only one B-B-Bible."

This kind of compulsive joviality, according to pulse-takers of the droll, seems to be in deep doldrums. A sort of boffo downswing. The general tendency is to blame the harsh times for this the parlor state of the world and the brutish upswing begetting a humorless mood.

Sam Levenson, the comedian, who is writing a book about the change in eras, disagrees with this theory. He says the trouble lies with the tremendous quickening in the tempo of living.

"I'll tell you the reason you hear fewer gags on the streets," he said. "People don't talk to each other. They're too busy. Then they go home and have a quick dinner and sit and stare at television for three hours. When there is no dialogue, how are you going to get joke-telling among people?"

"There's a general impatience. I don't see people sitting down and chatting any more. People have no patience with humor."

Hagerman item 30-419.

VOWS

HILL CITY — Phyllis Antrim and Dennis R. Strom were married Sept. 23 in the Eugene, Ore., Friends Church, with Rev. Donald Lamm officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Antrim, Springfield, Ore., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Strom, Hill City.

Janet Kennedy was maid of honor, Grithen Solin and Linda Noe were bridesmaids. Kevin Antrim, brother of the bride, was candlelighter.

Larry Bauscher was best man, B. W. Antrim, brother of the bride, and James Rice, were ushers.

After a honeymoon trip to California and Nevada, the couple resides in Nampa, where both are employed during the winter. In the spring they will move to a ranch at Hill City.

SHOSHONE — Film on "What's Now With Knits" will be shown by Mrs. Jeanene Annett, home economist, this month. The showing at Shoshone will be at 2 p.m. Oct. 24 at the courthouse. It will be shown at the Carey LDS Church Oct. 25 and at 3:30 p.m. Oct. 26 at the American Legion Hall, Fairfield. Exact time for the showing at Carey will be announced later.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother of little girls who wanted to bathe her neighbor's little boy (with her little girls "helping") so they could see what a little boy looked like has been on my mind. Maybe the little boy is just as curious, and should get equal time. Sounds awful to me!

It reminds me that while traveling in Italy many years ago and visiting churches, women with bare arms were not permitted in churches for fear the monks would be "disturbed." Meanwhile, these monks would be seen roaming around the art galleries gazing at the nude paintings!

Curious family

Perhaps the mother should take her curious daughters to an art museum. There are plenty of nude figures there and no one thinks a thing of it.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: And if they're ever in Florence (Italy), they shouldn't miss Michelangelo's "David."

DEAR ABBY: Some letters you had in your column from the husbands who were patting themselves on the back because they forgave their wives for having affairs prompts me to write.

About a year ago my wife forgave me for an affair which I knew almost from the start was a mistake. She assured me that all was forgiven. She hasn't mentioned it since, but hardly a day goes by when she hasn't mentioned something she wants me to buy her. She seldom goes anywhere with me, unless it's to see some of her friends. Mine have been crossed off our social list. She hasn't had sex with me for a year. (She says she doesn't "feel" like it.)

Do you think she has forgiven me? I am beginning to wish I hadn't crossed the other woman off my list.

TIED OF IT ALL

DEAR TIED: She obviously SAID she forgave you. Meanwhile, she's milking your mistake for all it's worth. When you think you've been punished enough, tell her! Unless you want to spend the rest of your life under her unforgiving thumb.

DEAR ABBY: At the beginning of summer I made up a "time schedule" for my children, since I didn't want to go thru another summer seeing them lie around doing nothing all day.

Some children are lucky enough to have summer jobs, or go to summer school, or summer camp, but judging from the favorable comment from neighbors, friends and repairmen who have seen my schedule posted on my kitchen wall, it's a pretty good idea.

I make a "chart" listing chores that must be done daily (Monday thru Saturday) Sunday is a "free" day, and I indicate which child is to do what on each day. It works like a charm, especially when I tell one of them to take out the garbage, and he says, "It's HER turn." I did it yesterday. Then trying to be fair, I wrack my brain trying to remember who was right.

I'm sorry I didn't think of sharing this idea with your readers sooner, Abby, but there is always next summer.

LUCILLE H.

DEAR LUCILLE: Thanks for suggesting it now. The summers seem to get closer together each year.

DEAR ABBY: Mighty kind of you to have put in a good word for the much maligned stepmothers of the world with your statement, "Abraham Lincoln was referring to his STEPMOTHER when he said, 'all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.'"

I challenge that When Lincoln's mother died he was nine years and 235 days old. He knew and loved his mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, and I believe he was referring to HER, and not to his stepmother, Sarah Bush Johnston Lincoln. Respectfully,

A STUDENT OF LINCOLN

If you can keep from looking at East and West cards do so. You are in six spades in a match-point duplicate game. Don't worry about how you got there. Let Rubens' doesn't give any bid ding in his book and we are going to give any bid.

Some claim that should be bid when all cards are seen are almost impossible to bid at the table and this is one of them. North and South only have 27 high card points and neither player has a singleton or a six-card suit. Anyway, there you are in six and a heart is opened. You win in dummy and lead the three of spades. East plays the deuce.

At this point you have a sure-thing play for your contract if you play a low

Trump. That is, it is sure unless West wins the trick with a singleton jack of king and gives his partner a ruff. This can happen, but it is unlikely that you don't consider it.

Rubens says to play the low trump and he is eminently correct. This play costs you an overtrick if West holds the singleton king of spades but it saves you contract if East holds the king and jack of spades in addition to the deuce he has already played.

The chance of a singleton king is greater but you are in such a good contract that you want to apply the rubber bridge principle of safety.

Her dream comes true

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Hattie Silva, 87, Shoshone, has corresponded with Lawrence Welk since her 80th birthday.

On Oct. 3, she had a dream come true. That was the date she attended the taping of a Lawrence Welk program and met Welk in person.

Through efforts of relatives in California, who are acquainted with Welk, Mrs. Silva took an airplane trip to Los Angeles and was escorted to the show by Eddy Albert, niece of Mrs. Silva, Cissy King met Mrs. Silva at the door.

Albert is a TV camera man and Mrs. Albert is a costume woman who had worked a few years with the Joey Bishop and Andy Griffith shows. The show, taped on Oct. 3, will be shown Nov. 4 on TV.

This was the first time Mrs. Silva has taken an airplane ride, too.

Mrs. Silva's daughter, Mrs. Iva Blalock, Los Angeles, accompanied her mother on the trip and to the show.

Pen pals marry

AFTER 28 years as "pen pals," Jerry Neary, San Diego, and Mary Smith, Peterborough, England, exchange marriage vows before Justice of the Peace Tom Davis in Carson City, Nev. They met for the first time in February of this year. It was the second marriage for both. (UPI)

Newlyweds reside in Filer

FILER — Debra Dawn Bodin and Clark Kauffman were married Sept. 9 in the First Covenant Church, Duluth, Minn., with the Rev. Selmer Jacobson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bodin, Duluth, Minn., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kauffman, Filer.

Mrs. Mark Bergman, Duluth, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Barbara Andler and Adrienne Genereau, both Duluth, and Lola Vavrica, New York City, were bridesmaids.

John Kauffman, brother of the bridegroom was best man. Larry Kauffman and Mark Theener, both Filer, and William Barr, Tomahawk, Wis., were groomsmen.

After a honeymoon trip to the Black Hills and Yellowstone National Park, the couple resides in Filer.

It all started with centerfold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—It started with a Burt Reynolds centerfold, but a group of enterprising, young California women hopes the overt appreciation of the unclad male body continues. They're in the nude poster business.

The young women are a team that make up the new San Francisco-based firm, Men for Women.

The brainchild of Star Obrenski-O'Brien, 27, a tall, slim, dark-haired beauty with a masters in fine arts from Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles, Men for Women has latched onto the Burt Reynolds fallout success and taken it some steps further—all in the name of women's liberation.

Currently, five 18-inch by 27-inch posters are available for the "joyous appreciation" of Steve, Derek, Al, Ray and Bob. Ms. Obrenski-O'Brien emphasizes that there is great disparity between the Playboy magazine approach to center-fold and the Men for Women approach to theirs.

"Ours are in the vein of liberation," she said. "Playboy is exploiting women—presenting women with fantastic, beautiful bodies who are unreal and unapproachable. But our men are not media beauties, and they aren't unapproachable or out of reach."

She then nodded toward Steve Shorbon, 24, a slight, curly-haired dark blond with an infectious smile who is one of the five models. "Steve is very believable," Ms. Obrenski-O'Brien continued. "He's no muscle man and he doesn't have a perfect body, but in the poster his personality shows through and you know he's someone you're likely to see walking down the street."

She said Men for Women polled about 500 women before the posters were made to see how the idea would be received.

Scholarship testing set

BOISE — High school juniors who plan to attend college next year should be aware of October 24 and October 28.

According to F. Richard Reed, director of financial aids at Boise State College, on these days a preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship qualifying test will be given. "Students who score well on either of these tests usually have excellent chances for receiving substantial financial aid to college," Reed stated.

High school juniors who are preliminary winners of the tests this month become finalists in the nationwide Merit Scholarship Testing Program. These finalists go on to compete for National Merit Scholarships which will provide full tuition, books, room and board to the college they name as their first or second choice. Finalists who do not receive National Merit Scholarships usually are eligible for other forms of grants and scholarships, depending on their career objectives.

Through the generosity of the Bank of Idaho, Boise State is among those colleges and corporations who provide National Merit awards. This year's merit award winner was Julie Morris, Twin Falls. Merit scholars at Boise State from corporations include Karl Weigers and Jeanne Yamamura.

Reed's office has also prepared an up-to-date students financial aids bulletin, a compilation of information about student aid which includes grants, scholarships, loans and procedures to obtain on or off campus employment. High school principals and counselors are invited to request the students financial aids bulletin from Reed's office. The Financial Aids Office complies with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which states, "No person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, national origin, be excluded from participation or be denied the benefits of, or by subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

The Department of Agriculture has a bulletin listing over 50 plants, with a guide for selection and planting instructions.

SHOSHONE — By planting a variety of available flowering shrubs, vines and trees, a garden can become more interesting for several seasons.

Mrs. Jeanene Annett, home economist, said some of the more colorful shrubs are blueberry, crapemyrtle, heather, butterflybush, hydrangea and leatherwood.

I.Q. - INVITATION QUOTIENT

By Mary Sue Miller

As life styles grow more formal, written invitations grow fewer. The telephone, land or for pen and paper. However, when a party is to be large or of special significance, a hostess finds it more efficient to send the more efficient.

Here's where a reply may give pause to the vigorous uninitiated. An I.Q. is an Invitation Quotient, a rate high when the procedures are followed.

• Three days is the time limit on answering invitations. Otherwise a hostess finds it difficult to complete her plans, her menus and entertainment.

• Written invitations must be answered by mail. For the hostess it is a matter of logistics.

• Written replies should be penned, not typed, on a folded sheet of classic notepaper. For most occasions it takes the form of a short letter. It should restate the day, date and hour of the party, so as to avoid misunderstandings. Of course a word of thanks is due. With a refusal, courtesy demands a briefly stated reason.

• Engraved invitations are the exception to the above. The form and formal language of the invitation is duplicated. Mr. and Mrs. William Webb accept with pleasure the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Mackey, etc.

The most invitations come to a lovely with the highest I.Q.

Takes oath

Abrams back to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams became the Army's 26th chief of staff Monday and was immediately ordered back to Vietnam for a new assessment of the war.

Abrams, who will study U.S. and NATO activities in Europe after he finishes his Vietnam visit, was sworn in as the Army's top-ranking soldier by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird during ceremonies on the Pentagon's parade ground.

Secretary Laird has asked Gen. Abrams to make an on-the-scene evaluation of Vietnamization progress, said Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim in an unexpected announcement.

Friedheim, however, refused to comment on whether the unusual timing of the Abrams trip was related to the Paris peace talks and to reports that presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and top North Vietnamese negotiators had made progress in private negotiations.

Abrams left Saigon in June after serving four years as the U.S. commander in Southeast Asia. Friedheim said Abrams would return to Saigon Monday night and remain in South Vietnam for about a week. After reporting to Laird, Friedheim said, Abrams would spend another week in Europe.

The Pentagon spokesman said Laird would use Abrams' report on his European trip to prepare for the annual NATO Defense Planning Committee meeting in December.

Monday's swearing-in ceremony came almost four months after President Nixon nominated the stocky, cigar-smoking general to replace retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Much of the delay resulted from Senate hearings which concluded Abrams had no knowledge of U.S. bombing raids early this year which violated President Nixon's orders limiting U.S. bomber strikes over North Vietnam.

Abrams, whose nomination was approved by the Senate Thursday, took his oath of office standing before a be-wigged color guard dressed like soldiers of the Continental

Army. With his wife standing at his side, the 58-year-old officer rested his hand on a small family Bible and swore to "support and defend the United States against all enemies, both foreign and domestic."

Before administering the oath of office, Laird presented Abrams with the distinguished service medal for "exceptional meritorious service" in Vietnam. He called Abrams "a brilliant combat leader and a versatile officer of faultless dedication and loyalty."

Kissinger said 'gunslinger' type

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The author of a new book about presidential aide Henry Kissinger describes him as a sort of "gunslinger" type of professional diplomat that is new to American politics.

"Kissinger hired out to Nelson Rockefeller in 1968 to gun down Richard Nixon for the presidential nomination," author-attorney Charles Ashman said Sunday.

"He failed to stop Nixon, but then joined him as a for-hire trouble-shooter."

"De Gaulle, the Berlin Wall, Red China, Vietnam. Kissinger handles them all. So he has moved up in the Nixon administration to become the most powerful number two man in the history of the United States."

"England, France and some other countries have had diplomats who were professionals and continued to represent their country through numerous changes in government."

"But the brilliant Henry Kissinger is the first of this 'gunslinger' sort the United States has ever had."

Ashman said he even considered using the title, "Have Brain, Will Travel," for his book on Kissinger. Instead, the book has just been published by Lyle Stuart, Inc., of Secaucus,

N.J., as "Kissinger: The Adventures of Super-Kraut."

Ashman said in an interview he was astonished while writing and researching his book that so many of the people he talked to had forgotten that Kissinger's job at the 1968 Republican convention was to stop Nixon.

At one point, an optimistic Kissinger actually told friends from Harvard that he felt they had stopped Nixon and Rockefeller would get the nomination, Ashman writes.

Buried in the press reports of Rockefeller's announcement on May 3, 1968, when he talked about the Vietnam war and domestic problems, was a suggestion that the president of the United States should visit Red China, writes Ashman.

"This idea had come from one of his new foreign affairs advisers — none other than Henry Kissinger."

Ashman uses a light approach in his study of Kissinger, dwelling on his life in Germany before immigrating to America, his rise to power within the Nixon administration and his well-publicized dates with some of the world's sexiest women.

"In fact he uses somewhat of a gunslinger approach in his dealings with women," Ashman says.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Army base publication control OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday let stand lower court decisions that an Army regulation which allows commanders to control distribution of publications on military bases is constitutional.

The Court acted in a brief order in a case involving distribution of an off-base, mimeographed newspaper by enlisted men at Ft. Knox, Ky. Various facets of this issue have been fought in federal courts for the past several years. Last term, the Supreme Court reversed the conviction of a civilian who had violated a military order barring him from Ft. Sam Houston in Texas. He was arrested while giving out leaflets on what the court viewed as a major public street which happened to traverse the military reservation.

Today's case was initiated in federal district court in Louisville by David Noland and other soldiers who were publishing a mimeographed newspaper called "In Formation." In 1970, they submitted a written request to the Ft. Knox commander for permission to hand out the paper on the base.

The request was at first denied on the ground that "dissemination of this publication presents a clear danger to the loyalty, discipline and morale of the troops of this command."

The matter was referred up the chain of command but after five months with no determination the soldiers started the court action.

Meantime, the soldiers were told that they could distribute Issue 1 but not Issue 2 of their paper. There was no explanation, but the letter imposed conditions as to place and time, and prohibited personal distribution to anyone attached to the base.

One of Noland's assistants who stood outside the immediate vicinity of a distribution box was arrested by military police for soliciting and disorderly conduct.

Federal District Judge James F. Gordon said he reluctantly set himself "to sea" in deciding the case, since he has no expert knowledge in the field — one in which he personally feels "courts should not sail."

Upholding the regulation, he said "one in the military service has no absolute right of free speech" and accepts "some abridgment" on it when enlisting.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed this view by a 2 to 1 vote on April 21.

Multiple use plan favored by Symms

BOISE (UPI) — Congressional candidate Steve Symms said today he favors the multiple use concept for public lands.

"I support the multiple use concept stated by the U.S. Forest Service," he said, "and will support them in the development of a high sustained yield by increased tree planting, and greater reforestation of land under their control."

"Wildlife, outdoor recreation and good timber production can all thrive together in well-managed forests."

Symms put forth an eight-point policy statement on public lands at a meeting billed as a news conference but attended by numerous supporters, party workers and even a woman with two pre-school children.

A UPI reporter left the "news conference" when non-newsmen began asking questions.

Other points of the Symms' land policy included:

- Continuation of distribution of Bureau of Land Management land for agricultural purposes under the Desert Entry Act.
- Protection of grazing rights and more stability for leases "so that ranchers using this land would have greater incentives to care for and improve it."

Release by the BLM of selected parcels of desert land for industrial development, rather than destroy good farm

In other major actions, the Court:

- Refused to delay a lower court's order calling for busing of about 14,000 public school students in Memphis next January, and also refused to speed up consideration of a busing case from Richmond, Va.

- Pending full appeals procedure, blocked a lower court ruling which struck down Connecticut's abortion law as unconstitutional. State authorities argued that if a delay was not granted, the state would be left without any laws to protect the lives of its unborn children at any stage of their development.

- Refused to allow the conservative American Party to bring directly to the Supreme Court a lawsuit against 17 states and the District of Columbia which have barred the party from their Nov. 7 election ballots.

- Declined to interfere with a lower court ruling that newspapers are subject to the 1968 Fair Housing Act ban on publication of racially discriminatory real estate or housing advertisements.

- Declined to review lower court rulings from Ohio which exempted the auto insurance business from federal antitrust laws on "grounds" the state exercises regulatory powers in the field. The unsuccessful challenge of the exemption was brought by the Ohio AFL-CIO.

- Agreed to hear a Georgia case to decide whether the 1965 Voting Rights Act protecting political rights of racial minorities applies to state legislative reapportionments. At issue was the right of the Justice Department to veto such reapportionment in Georgia and other states with past records of low voter participation.

- Let stand lower rulings that it is constitutional for persons entering U.S. courthouses to be subjected to searches for guns and explosives. George Barrett, a Nashville lawyer, challenged the practice which has been in effect in numerous instances since June 15, 1971.

- Refused to disturb lower court decisions that an Army regulation which allows base commanders to control distribution of publications on their installations is constitutional.

- The latest unsuccessful Vietnam war challenge originated in a Los Angeles federal district court where three men claimed that Congress unconstitutionally delegated its war powers to the President when it passed the foreign assistance act in 1961.

Environmentalists at odds with energy search

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
A new battle is shaping up between those concerned about America's need for more sources of energy and those who worry about pollution of the environment.

At issue this time are plans by the U.S. government and the oil industry to build giant offshore terminals at which large modern supertankers could unload their sticky cargoes of crude petroleum.

The salient facts of the dispute are as follows:

The United States, because of its prodigious consumption of energy, is becoming more and more dependent on imported oil. Projections indicate domestic production will meet less than half the nation's petroleum needs by 1985.

It's a great deal cheaper to haul oil in a big tanker than in a small or medium sized tanker. For example, the cost of bringing one barrel of crude petroleum from the Middle East to the Atlantic seaboard of the United States could be reduced about 65 per cent if East Coast ports were able to accommodate 300,000-ton tankers instead of being limited by their relatively shallow harbors, to tankers of 80,000 tons or less.

Moreover, the 300,000-ton supertankers now in use are small in comparison with some already on the ways or on drawing boards. Japan plans soon to launch a tanker with a capacity close to 500,000 tons. And tankers as large as 1,000,000 tons capacity are being planned.

The West Coast has three deep harbors — Los Angeles, Long Beach and Puget Sound — that can handle supertankers. But the East Coast, where the demand for petroleum is greatest, can cope with the fantastic draughts of supertankers the new Japanese ship, for example, will need a depth of 92 feet of water in which to operate only by building "floating island" terminals in deep offshore waters.

The idea is for supertankers to unload at an offshore terminal, with the oil being pumped to the mainland through pipelines.

The U. S. Maritime Administration has officially recommended construction of such a facility, at an estimated cost of $500 million, on a 200-acre artificial island about 9 miles east of Cape Henlopen, Del. Army Engineers are working on plans for at least five other offshore terminals stretching from Maine south along the East Coast.

The Maritime Administration and U.S. oil importers say these offshore ports are the only economically feasible solution to America's rapidly growing demand for foreign petroleum.

But environmental protection groups are upset. They recall recent years by oil spills from much smaller tankers. They argue that the planned Cape Henlopen oil port would be within a few miles of two popular ocean resorts — Rehoboth Beach, Del., and Cape May, N. J. One storm-tossed supertanker, they say, would spill enough black, greasy crude petroleum to despoil vast stretches of seashore.

Area students bused to Declo, Burley

SPRINGDALE — Springdale District Health Department, Twin Falls, ordered the Cassia School District to complete a new water well and sewage system at Springdale elementary before reopening its doors.

The busing decision came Friday after the South Central was condemned Oct. 9 by the state health agency when well tests revealed intestinal bacteria. Complete closure came Wednesday after school district plans to provide temporary source of water were disapproved.

The health department cited the close proximity of the sewage system to the water well as the probable cause of the pollution.

Cassia administrators determined attendance schedules for the displaced Springdale pupils Friday. Under the plan, kindergarten through third grades are bused to Declo elementary, fourth graders to Dworshak, fifth graders to Southwest and sixth graders to Miller.

Cassia School Supt. Harold Blauer has set a tentative two-week deadline on construction projects at the school. He reported Monday that well drilling operations were in progress and that a depth of 72 feet had been reached as of 2 p.m. Rex Weech, the school-hired well driller, said Saturday that plans called for drilling 200 to 250 feet.

Blauer added that the framework for a new 4,000-gallon septic tank was started Monday. The school district decided to construct its own sewage system after a commercial sewage vendor said septic tank delivery would take more than three weeks.

Commenting on the effect of the emergency measures, Blauer said, "People are adjusting very well" to the unusual circumstances.

Temporary schools

SPRINGDALE students board buses at Springdale Elementary School to be taken to Burley and Declo teaching sites. Busing decision came after the South Central District Health Department, Twin Falls, ordered the Cassia School District to complete a new water well and sewage system at Springdale before reopening its doors.

Cassia votes on bond issue

BURLEY — Cassia County residents voted today on a $2.35 million school-bond issue.

A two-thirds majority is needed for passage of the bond issue.

Polls will close at 8 p.m.

If passed, the proposal would provide funds for an addition to Declo High School for use by kindergarten through ninth grade, and a new gymnasium at a cost of $800,000; renovation and conversion of Oakley High School to a junior high, $250,000; from 7 to 10 new classrooms at Burley High School, $500,000; a multiple learning station at Raft River High School, $125,000; a new elementary school at Oakley, $1.1 million, and a contingency fund, $175,000.

Polling places will be at Oakley High School, Burley Senior High School, Beangrowers Warehouse in Milner, Southwest Elementary School, Burley Junior High School, Springdale Elementary, Unity Light and Power Co., Declo City Hall, Raft River High School, Malta, Albion Elementary School, and Almo Elementary School.

Burley chamber hears hopefuls

BURLEY — Burley Chamber of Commerce members heard brief talks by Cassia County Republican legislative candidates at a meeting Monday.

Vard Chatburn, R-Albion, presented a brief resume of past legislation stressing the freeport law which he said would help Idaho in bringing new businesses and industries into the state.

He also discussed pollution and water control, saying he believes the water control commission ought to have more authority than the fish and game department over water and pollution. He also said mining legislation should be updated to offset ecological damage.

Ernest Hale, R-Burley, said education and school funding will be a big issue in the next session. No-fault insurance will also be a major issue. He favors establishment of a City of Rocks national park and monument.

Charles Terhune, Republican senate candidate, expressed concern about Idaho water resources, saying something must be done about the surplus Snake River water passing Milner Dam. He said the moratorium on Snake River water was passed four years ago and something must be done about using the surplus water or the southwestern states will be trying to get it.

Terhune said he feels action must be started now as it takes 10 to 20 years to get a project started. He said he favors the building of more dams to conserve Snake River water. He also said many Idaho acreages could be opened to use the water, noting that costs will increase as time passes.

Jay Schofield, president of the chamber, announced dedication of the Burley National Guard Armory will be Monday. No chamber meeting is scheduled for Monday because of the Veterans Day activities.

Hazelton man faces charge

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer
JEROME — Testimony continued today in a preliminary hearing for Gary Standlee, 30, Hazelton, who is charged with first degree murder.

The hearing opened Monday morning before Magistrate Russell Shaud and continued until a late afternoon recess was called.

Witnesses called by Pros. Atty. Eugene Fredericksen testified Monday and this morning. Defense counsel James May was scheduled to begin calling witnesses late this afternoon or Wednesday.

Standlee is charged in connection with the shooting death of his former wife, Sharyn Woodall, 26, Her husband, Theral Woodall, 41 Silverton, Ore., was also wounded in the incident at the home of Standlee's parents in the Greenwood community east of Hazelton in August.

Medical testimony was given Monday by Dr. Robert H. Maier, Twin Falls, a pathologist; Dr. George E. Brown, Twin Falls, who was on emergency duty at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital when the shooting victims were brought there, and Dr. Bruce Buck, Twin Falls, who performed surgery on Woodall to treat his wounds.

Also testifying at the hearing were Mrs. Delores Standlee, the defendant's sister-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Standlee, parents of the accused man, and Mike Standlee, 14, the nephew of the defendant.

Their testimony pertained to events in the home during the reported altercation which preceded the shooting and to events after the shooting.

MV hospital head resigns position

In 1957 the hospital was accredited and has retained that status since. It has changed in bed size, being reduced as demands for obstetrics facilities diminished. This space has been put to use in more needed facilities.

Mrs. Oliver said this year the hospital has served 5,300 patients, and is 261 ahead of the same time last year. Patient days have increased to 20,672, or 1,800 more than a year ago.

Emergency room patients increased from 314 the first year Mrs. Oliver was administrator to 5,166 in 1971 and this year shows an increase of 500 over the same time in 1971.

Rosenbaum, 46, a native of Idaho, has served as assistant administrator since March, 1965. He previously was hospital administrator of the Power County Hospital, American Falls, and of the Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley, coming to Twin Falls from the Burley position.

Rosenbaum, who resides at 863 Rose St. N., is married and the father of three children. He holds a degree in hospital administration from Columbia University, N.Y., and graduated from the U.S. Army-Baylor University program in hospital administration.

He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators, past president of the Idaho Hospital Association, and has held positions in professionally affiliated organizations. He serves on the Blue Cross Board of Directors, executive committee.

Rosenbaum is a registered medical technologist and registered X-ray technologist. He is a World War II veteran and currently an officer in the Idaho Army National Guard's 116th Armored Cavalry Regiment. He is a member of the Methodist Church and the Masonic Lodge and served as an institutional representative with the Boy Scouts of America.

Welch talks in Gooding

GOODING — Joe Welch of the Idaho Planning and Community Affairs, met Monday night with 20 Gooding residents to discuss a state reorganization amendment.

There was no opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment which would reduce state agencies from 268 agencies to 20 or less.

Welch said if the amendment is passed, reorganization would be set for January, 1975. The state legislature would determine what agencies would be affected, he said.

The proposal is non-partisan and would not expand the power of either the governor or the legislature, he said.

The proposal would help cut administrative red tape and enable anyone having a problem to find the answer quicker and know who to go to, he said. There already have been 37 states which have reorganized, Welch said.

Black comic enthralls TF audience

The 150 persons attending the lecture gave Gregory a standing ovation when he finished. He came back on stage a few minutes later to answer questions, and stayed until the campus security said they had to lock up the building.

Gregory speaks on college campuses about ten months out of the year, he said, spreading the message that students have the power to change the society if they will only take it.

But, he warned, time is running out. "We need to love America a little bit less and respect the Constitution a little bit more," he told them, "until we start respecting one another because we're human, that (American) flag won't be safe."

His fast, he said later, was a rallying point for opposition to the war, something for people to identify with. Gandhi, he said of the leader of the Indian independence movement of 25 years ago, could have outfitted an army, "but the British could have dealt with that."

Instead, he fasted, gave a focus to the opposition to British rule, and helped win his cause. His own fast, he said, "is providing a center for the opposition to the myriad problems that face America, and to encourage the new niggers in the society, the white college students, to give sanity back to an insane nation."

Salmon forest withdrawal set

SALMON — Withdrawal of 271 acres in the Salmon National Forest from mineral location and entry, has been announced by the Bureau of Land Management.

The withdrawal, made at the U.S. Forest Service's request, is necessary, according to William L. Mathews, BLM state director, for the protection of watershed stabilization improvements on the Dump Creek drainage into the Salmon River.

Mathews said the Dump Creek watershed, 19 miles west of Salmon, has been heavily damaged by previous mining activity and that development work is necessary to prevent continued and detrimental siltation of the Salmon River.

Mathews noted that the Salmon River is included in the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1968 as a potential addition to the Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

The land to be withdrawn, he said, had previously been acquired by exchange from Hugh M. Coiner, Salmon

Blaine man hurt

BELLEVUE — A Bellevue man was listed in satisfactory condition today at the Moritz Community Hospital with a leg injury following a hunting accident Monday afternoon.

According to Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler, the man has been identified as Bill Bergund. While duck hunting, Bergund apparently shot himself in the left leg between the ankle and knee, resulting in bone damage, Drexler said.

Further details of the accident were not known today. Bergund was taken in a Bird's ambulance to the Blaine County Hospital about 5:30 p.m. Monday and was later transferred to the Sun Valley facility.

Gooding council hears complaint

GOODING — Mayor Harley Crippen reported at a Monday night Gooding City Council meeting on a complaint held earlier that day with bar owners in the city.

The bar owners, the mayor said, were concerned that some private clubs had not been obtaining proper permits when serving liquor on the premises. He said the clubs in question are alleged to be the Elks Club, the Gooding Country Club and the Dance Club.

He said the bar owners have registered concern about the alleged violations. Councilman Don Simis suggested during the council meeting that the bar owners should sign complaints against the clubs. City Atty. Cecil Hobday was instructed to investigate the city's liquor permit ordinances.

In other action, the council heard a report from Mayor Crippen that he has been corresponding with Sen. Len B. Jordan and Reps. Orval Hansen and James McClure regarding federal grant processes and revenue sharing.

The mayor said that all federal grants should be thrown out because smaller cities never get any of the funds. He read a letter from Sen. Jordan in which the senator said some federal grant programs should be phased down and that some current federal aid programs are wasteful.

Discussed mobile home and trailer house zoning and decided to leave the ordinance in effect as it now reads.

Instructed the city attorney to determine who owns mineral rights on property the city owns outside the city limits.

Discussed financing of a city basketball team with Bob Eckles. The mayor said some funds may be available after the first of the year.

Instructed the city building inspector to make a safety inspection of the old Gooding Theater recently purchased by Jim Wilkins, Gooding.

GF chamber hears bill

GLENN FERRY — Idaho Senate Joint Resolution 132 was presented to the Glenn Ferry Chamber of Commerce Monday.

Joseph Welch, Boise, on the staff of the executive reorganization committee, presented the resolution which would change the number of Idaho state agencies from 268 to 20.

Welch's speech drew a large crowd of interested persons.

No chamber of commerce meeting is scheduled for next Monday. The meeting is canceled because of the Veteran's Day holiday.

departments or the ambulance service.

In other action, the council passed an ordinance increasing the number of members on the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission from the present seven to nine members.

Councilman Gerald Sidwell said the additional two members will aid in obtaining a quorum. Currently, he said, the commission has six voting members with four members required for a quorum. With the new members, five will be needed for a quorum.

Action on a request by Carl Pothier, owner of the KOA Campground south of the city, to hook onto the sewer was tabled until additions are made to the sewage treatment plant.

Acting City Atty. Robert St. Clair recommended that immediately after a required cover on the sludge tank is installed that the state health department to determine how many additional hookups can be allowed.

In other action, the council approved a request of Pothier for a building on a lot in Warm Springs which is about 4,000 square feet below the minimum size regulations.

Pothier, speaking on behalf of the present owner, said the lot was left over after a subdivision made prior to the Warm Springs annexation to the city. Sidwell said that a number of smaller lots under the same circumstances exist in Warm Springs and that the city has had to abide with the size upon annexation.

Presented to the council for first reading were ordinances:

— Calling for the renaming of Olympic Drive to Corrock Drive in honor of Susan Corrock, Olympic skier and — Amending the dog fine and impoundment fee schedule. The city has a $5 impoundment fee with $1 per day charged while the dog is confined.

The proposed amendment would establish fines charged for repeated impoundment during a one-year period as $5 for the first offense, $10 for the second, $25 for the third and $50 for the fourth offense. An impoundment fee of $3 per day will also be charged.

The council also requested Gen. Robert Neely to work with the city on proposed street name changes. Neely, representing the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce, recommended that Third Street be renamed Sun Valley Road as most residents already refer to the street by that name.

Neely also recommended that the council consider renaming First through Sixth Avenues to eliminate confusion with like numbered streets.

Ketchum-SV unit merge aired

By TERRY CAMPBELL

KETCHUM — Possible combination of the Ketchum and Sun Valley fire departments was discussed but tabled Monday night by the Ketchum City Council.

Glenn Brannen, police and fire commissioners, said Sun Valley and the Ketchum Rural Fire District are ready to go to a merged department, but are waiting for the possible participation.

Under consideration, Brannen said, is the hiring of either a fulltime fire chief or a fire marshal to conduct inspections and maintain the fire equipment.

Also tabled was a councilman's proposal that the city adopt the uniform emergency telephone number 911. Brannen said by calling the one number, connections can be made to police and fire

Reorganization, busing on ballot

BOISE (UPI) — Probably two of the most talked about amendments appearing on the Nov. 7 general election ballot are government reorganization and a change in the Idaho Constitution allowing state funds to be used for sectarian school transportation.

The state reorganization proposal appearing on the ballot, if passed, requires state government to have no more than 20 departments.

The proposal, which has been heavily supported by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and other high-ranking state officials, would require that the present 268 agencies, commissions, departments and offices be trimmed to 20 by January 1975.

Andrus says the fewer departments in state government would lead to more accountability and "whoever is governor" would have an easier job pointing out problems when they occur.

According to a member of a state team traveling around Idaho explaining reorganization, one of the most asked questions is how the new system will work.

According to Andrus' press secretary John Hough, Senate Joint Resolution 132, which will appear on the ballot, is a question to the people if they approve of reorganization.

"In the past expensive studies have been conducted and never implemented by the legislature. Before another study is conducted the state is seeking a mandate from the people," he said.

Hough said there was a successful reorganization in 1919 when law makers cut the number of state agencies to nine, but the fatal mistake they made was not to set a constitutional limit on the number of departments.

Andrus said earlier in an interview with United Press International that no open opposition of the measure had surfaced. He said in order for the amendment to pass the voters will have to understand S.J.R. 132.

Andrus, Joe Welch, associate director of executive reorganization, and others are doing their best to educate the people. Welch is heading a team of state employees making presentations in almost every town in Idaho with more than 1,000 residents.

Almost $25,000 in federal money has gone into television spots and educational material. One spokesman said all that is left is for the people to decide and if they favor the proposal a plan for reorganization will begin.

Another much-talked about amendment would allow the state to contribute funds for transportation of sectarian students to and from school.

Presently, the constitution prohibits the legislature, county, city, school district or any other public corporation from making any appropriation to any church, sectarian or religious group.

The constitution also forbids the state from supporting any school, academy, seminary, college, university or other literary or scientific institution controlled by any church.

One of the most outspoken opponents of the amendment is Wayne York, executive secretary of the Idaho Education Association.

"The IEA hastens to note that the public schools are open to all children of all religious groups. It is by choice and design that some families send their children to private, or parochial schools," he said.

"The fact that such families pay to support a public school system is part of the American scheme of taxation for the public good and general welfare," York said.

But Father James R. Wilson, principal of Bishop Kelly High School in Boise, says the amendment, if passed, would not "help the school." He said it would be a convenience to the parents who now provide transportation for their children.

He said when the school found it could no longer provide school buses for transportation there was not a drop in enrollment, because parents found means to get their children to and from school.

He said the question is not "separation of church and state." He said transportation for Catholic students would not increase enrollment.

"Transportation to and from school is everyone's right," he said.

York pointed out that the legislature earlier passed a bill calling for the state to provide transportation services to private and sectarian schools and it was ruled unconstitutional by the Idaho Supreme Court.

"The issue is separation of church and state as found in the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Idaho," York said.

But another advocate of the H.J.R. 35, who asked not to be identified, said private and parochial schools are defraying a "tremendous additional financial burden" which would fall on the laps of public schools if parochial schools were to close down.

She said the costs to the public would be far greater than the initial costs for more school buses to transport parochial and private school children.

Next, the amendments no one talks about legislative pay raises.

Agreement, not law, repealed

SHOSHONE — The community property agreement, not the community property law, was repealed by the Legislature with passage of the new Idaho Uniform Probate Code.

In a story that appeared in the Times-News Thursday, in which Prosecutor Howard E. Adkins was the speaker to the North Side Board of Realtors, the word 'Agreement' was omitted, reflecting a different meaning on the information pertaining to the community property status within the state code.

The community property agreement, passed in 1970, by addition to the Idaho Session Laws was repealed and the new Uniform Probate Code was passed, going into effect July 1, 1972.

In referring to a possible problem that might exist under the community property agreement, Adkins said he was thinking of ways to clear title in event of need or desire to sell property. A death certificate would necessarily need to be filed and proof of payment of taxes that might put a cloud on the title of property going to the surviving spouse.

Richfield plant goes according to schedule

RICHFIELD — Construction of the new creamery owned by C. W. and Jay Ward Inc. is on schedule, according to construction superintendent Mont Lewis.

The new plant, located adjacent to the west edge of Richfield on Highway 93A is being built at a total cost of over $400,000.

At least 95 per cent of the cinder blocks have been laid and all of the concrete floors are in, Lewis said. Work on the roof will begin the first part of the week. Site work for the blacktop that will be put around the structure will also start next week, he added.

General contractors for the project is Taysom Construction Co., Pocatello. Sub-contractors are B & J Plumbing, mechanical Electric Equipment Co., electrical; and Carlson and Jacobsen, masonry. Montmorency, Hayes and Talbot Architects Inc., Salt Lake City, were the architects.

The building is expected to be completed by the middle of January of next year.

Rent watch books available in TF

TWIN FALLS — Copies of a booklet describing the "Rent Watch" program are now available at the Twin Falls Social Security Office, John K. Carlton, district manager, said today.

The "Rent Watch" is aimed at preventing landlords from illegally boosting rents to take advantage of the increased social security benefits which became payable this month.

The booklet tells social security beneficiaries what to do if they receive a notice of a proposed rent increase and how to file a complaint with the Internal Revenue Service if they believe the increase is in violation of Economic Stabilization regulations.

Social security beneficiaries in Magic Valley may obtain a copy of the leaflet by calling 733-6050 or by writing to the Twin Falls office.

Heavy fines likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers and others who pollute the environment with overdoses of pest control chemicals may face fines up to $1,000 and, in some cases, brief jail terms under a new law which cleared Congress last week.

The $1,000 penalties plus possible jail terms of up to 30 days will apply to "private users," those who spray pesticides on their own property, officials of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) explained.

For commercial applicators and dealers and manufacturers, penalties for mis-use of approved pesticides or handling of banned materials would be stiffer. Fines in flagrant cases could range up to $25,000 with prison terms of up to one year under terms of the new pesticide control law now awaiting President Nixon's signature.

The new law, the first major overhaul of pesticide legislation in 25 years, is one of the fruits of the environmental crusade which began a decade ago after publication of the late Rachel Carson's book, "Silent Spring."

The law gives the EPA, a two-year-old child of the environmental safety age, a power the government never had before — authority to punish misuse of pesticide chemicals.

Effective dates of the new penalty provisions remain uncertain. The law forbids either civil or criminal sanctions until 60 days after the EPA formally adopts detailed regulations for administering the many provisions of the new act. Adoption of these regulations could take many months, or in some individual cases, several years.

But regardless of the precise effective dates, the law clearly lays down separate penalty treatment for two separate classes of pesticide users and handlers — private and commercial.

For private applicators, including farmers and others who use chemicals on their own property, the law authorizes either civil or criminal penalties for misuse. In civil cases, the EPA could levy a fine of up to $1,000, but only on a "second offense" after the user had first been given a prior warning. Also, the user facing a fine will have to be given an opportunity, if he wants it, for a hearing in his home city or county. In most cases, these hearings probably would be conducted by state agencies which will cooperate with EPA in enforcement.

EPA also could bring criminal charges against private users of pesticides, who received an award from Standard Brands. She is a member of the Desert 4-H Club and has been in 4-H work seven years. She is a senior in the Mountain Home high school, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhead.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While the Soviet Union receives millions of tons of favorably-priced U.S. wheat through the coming year to offset its own disastrous crop failure, it will be shipping out an increasing volume of cotton to step up competition against the United States in world markets.

The Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), in a report published here today, said the increased competition in cotton markets was signalled by recently revised estimates of the 1972 Soviet cotton crop.

Earlier, the crop had been estimated at about 10.3 million bales. But new reports on the harvest, which normally runs from September through November, now estimate the crop will reach about 11.1 million bales. This would be the same as last year's record Soviet crop, and experts here said the final total could rise slightly to a new record.

A second straight Soviet harvest in the 11 million bale range could mean U.S. merchandisers will find it harder to get orders from some traditional foreign customers, or will find price competition sharper, as Soviet salesmen also try to peddle their cotton. This comes at a time when U.S. farmers have increased production and are hoping to expand export sales.

FAS specialists explained in their report today that the weather disasters which played havoc with Soviet wheat, potatoes and other crops did not harm the cotton.

Soviet cotton is grown mainly in Central Asia near the Iran-Afghanistan-China border and east of the Caspian Sea. Practically all of the cotton land is irrigated and was not affected by the drought and other problems which plagued crops in more northerly parts of the Soviet Union.

Butz believes co-ops corporate fight key

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, attacked last year as more sympathetic to giant agribusiness firms than to small farmers, these days is lecturing audiences on his prescription for heading off corporate control of agriculture — strong cooperatives.

Until recently, Butz has been discounting fears that big corporations may soon drive out independent farmers and dominate the production of food as well as processing. When a House subcommittee held hearings on an anti-corporate farm bill earlier this year, Butz sent an aide to testify there was no need for the legislation.

Now, however, the agriculture secretary has begun weaving into his speeches a warning that the most critical farm issue of the coming decade will be the question, "Who will control agriculture?"

"The issue isn't as hot and emotional as some politicians and some social crusaders and some professors and some writers would leave us to believe. But it's real," Butz said in one recent speech.

The agriculture secretary said he believes in a "free agriculture" where family farmers can earn a fair return. But it will take a "strong effort" to maintain such an agriculture, Butz added.

The program, as Butz sees it, grows out of technological changes in farm production and marketing which make farming a business of steadily growing investment needs and risks.

"The risks he (family farmer) must take keep mounting, and he seeks ways to reduce those risks," Butz said.

Farmers have found varying ways to reduce risks in recent years. These have ranged from limited partnership arrangements in cattle feeding on through a wide variety of contract production deals — and all the way to outright vertical integration. In integrated systems, like those used in chicken production, farmers contribute only their land and labor with chicks, feed and all supplies owned by the contracting corporations.

To reduce risk, Butz said, the farmer usually must "trade off" by giving up some of his independence.

"Concentrated corporate agriculture provides another alternative — but that alternative as a reasonable, long-term solution is really a dead end."

Having rejected government control and corporate domination as solutions for the farmer, Butz puts his own idea this way:

"The only real alternative farmers have is to jump into the battle for control with their own organizations and co-operatives.

Rain may cause delay of tonight's series contest

OAKLAND (UPI)—The specter of 1962, when rain in the San Francisco Bay Area caused three postponements, hung over the 1972 World Series today with a strong possibility that Tuesday night's scheduled third game between the Oakland A's and Cincinnati Reds would be set back.

If the game goes on as scheduled at 5:15 p.m. PDT, righthander John "Blue Moon" Odom, who won the final game of the American League playoffs, will start for the A's, who lead two games to none, against righthander Jack Billingham of the Reds.

With the natural turf at Oakland Coliseum already soaked and spongy from heavy rain Monday, the weather forecast was for a 30 per cent chance of more rain today.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, in whose hands lies the whole authority for Series games, planned to visit the Coliseum early in the day for a first look.

"Kuhn did not visit the stadium Monday because the forecast of likely more rain means that the condition of the field Tuesday is the only important thing, a spokesman for Kuhn said.

Although prolonged rain in the Bay Area is unusual in October, in 1962 rain postponed two games of the Giants-Yankees series in San Francisco and another was postponed because of wet grounds. A record of nearly six inches fell during that week in 1962, but that mark has been broken here during the past week with more than six inches.

In the event of a postponement, the third game would be played Wednesday night and the fourth game Thursday night. If a fifth game is necessary, it would be played Friday afternoon, originally scheduled as a travel date, and then a sixth in Cincinnati Saturday afternoon and the seventh there Sunday afternoon.

Kuhn's spokesman said the commissioner has conferred with the National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) about the possibility of playing the Saturday game in Cincinnati, if there is a postponement, at night. However, he said it was unlikely the network, which is telecasting the series, would agree.

"The possibility is," he said, "that no games in the series will be played at night other than those on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday."

Dick Williams, manager of the A's, who need to win only two of the three games scheduled here to wrap up the Series, and Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds both said that a postponement would have no effect on their pitching plans. "Odom will start the third game for us, whether it is played tonight or Wednesday, and Ken Holtzman will start the fourth game," Williams said. "I do not plan at this time to move Jim Hunter up in the rotation. However, if there should be a postponement for more than one day, I would have to re-evaluate the situation with my coaches."

Anderson, who admitted the Reds' "backs are to the wall," was asked whether he would like a postponement in order to come in the third game with some pitcher other than Billingham, who was 12-12 during the regular season, perhaps Gary Nolan, the opening game starter and loser.

"I am very happy to have Jack as the pitcher who must stop the A's," Anderson said. "I don't want a postponement. I want to play tonight."

Anderson said the situation now is very different from 1970, when the Reds lost in five games to the Baltimore Orioles and would have welcomed a respite at this point.

"My pitching staff was wracked by injuries in that series," Anderson recalled, "and I knew if I got behind in the series, I was going to have a tough time coming back because I was running out of starting pitchers. That's not true this time."

Neither team worked out Monday, the A's by choice as Williams gave his surprising underdogs an off day, and the Reds because of the rain.

That left a lot of time for reading newspapers, and the Reds didn't like what they saw in a local paper. Oakland pitching whiz Vida Blue was quoted as saying "we are handling the Cincinnati Reds easier than we handled the Texas Rangers."

Sharp words, since the Rangers were last in the AL West, were beaten by the A's 11 times in 14 games, and were generally reckoned the worst club in the Big League.

"Assuming that Vida Blue was quoted correctly, I'm surprised that a young player of his intelligence and ability would say a thing like that at this time," Anderson said. "When you're out in front 2-0, the best thing to do is to zip your lip. You know, you wake up a rattlesnake and the rattlesnake may just turn on you and bite you."

If that happens, I may be thanking Vida Blue before the Series is over," said Anderson. "I'm sure of one thing—we're going to go back to Riverfront Stadium."

Williams, meanwhile, admitted that he and first baseman Mike Epstein "had words" on the A's plane back to Oakland Sunday night about the quick book he gave Epstein in Sunday's game, yanking him for a pinchrunner although it was only the top of the sixth inning.

"Epstein objected to being taken out so early," Williams said. "That's okay. I like a player who wants to play, who doesn't want to come out of the game."

Officials discuss bonuses

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The announcement by Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley that he is rewarding players Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi for their outstanding post-season play with $5,000 bonuses Monday provoked a meeting of top baseball officials on the legality of Finley's actions.

In the afternoon meeting were Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, as well as Presidents Joe Cronin of the American League and Charles Feeney of the National League.

Finley disclosed the bonuses to reward Tenace for his two home runs which paced Oakland to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati in the opening Series game Saturday and Rudi for his home run and game-saving catch in the A's 2-1 victory on Sunday.

Baseball rules frown on bonuses given to players as rewards for particular performances and instead point the way for players to negotiate larger salaries with their teams for the following season.

Halfback is ruled ineligible

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Halfback J.D. Smith had his college football career brought to an end Monday when California ruled him ineligible because he used up one year of football life by playing 12 minutes in two games in 1970.

The 23-year-old senior who has carried 19 times for 101 yards this season had been granted an extra year to the regulation four years on the basis of a petition to the Pacific-8 Conference that he had played "a few minutes in one game" in 1970.

Smith played two seasons with Taft Junior College before transferring to the University of California to play for the Bears in 1970 and 1971.

The petition to extend his college football career was filed last winter by the then California Athletic Faculty representative Dr. Robley Williams.

"Dr. Williams unknowingly transmitted incorrect information in the petition," said Cal Athletic Director Dave Maggard.

"J.D. actually played 12 minutes in two games in 1970. Under the circumstances, we feel that he is not eligible."

Wooden continues coaching

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—UCLA basketball coach John Wooden used the occasion of the start of practice for his defending NCAA championship team to announce he intended continuing to coach for at least two more years.

"I definitely intend to coach for two more years and possibly five more if my health remains good," Wooden said before the press day practice session, starting his 25th year as UCLA head coach.

"We expect to field another outstanding basketball team," he added.

Wooden welcomed back nine lettermen from last year's undefeated team but mourned the loss of graduated guard Henry Bibby who is now with the New York Knicks of the NBA.

He contributed so much off the court as well as on. He was always the first man at practice and was the team leader with his hustle.

The returning starters from last year's championship team are Player of the Year Bill Walton at center forwards Larry Farmer and Keith Wilkes and guard Greg Lee.

Wooden said for Bibby's guard spot he had junior letterman Tommy Curtis and senior Larry Hollyfield along with sophomore Andre McCarter.

The Bruins open their season with an inter-sectional game against Wisconsin here Nov. 25.

Whalers top Chicago 4-1

BOSTON (UPI)—John French, Dick Sarrazin and Ted Green scored a goal apiece in a six-minute span during the second period Monday night to power the New England Whalers to a 4-1 win over the Chicago Cougars in a World Hockey Association game.

The Whalers trailed 1-0 when Sarrazin banged in an eight-footer during a scramble in front of the Chicago net to tie the game with 11:43 gone in the period.

Griese leaves Miami hospital

MIAMI (UPI)—Miami quarterback Bob Griese accepted an apology Monday from the man who smashed his right leg and predicted that his replacement, Earl Morrall, will take the Dolphins back to the Super Bowl.

Griese was tackled by San Diego defensive lineman Ron East midway through the first quarter of Miami's 24-10 victory over the Chargers Sunday and suffered a broken small bone of his right leg and a dislocated ankle.

Monday, the 27-year-old Griese met newsmen in his hospital room before going home on crutches with his leg in a cast for at least six weeks. Team physician Dr. Herbert Birgin estimated it might be eight weeks before Griese could play again.

A team official told Griese in the hospital that East had stopped Morrall on the field Sunday and told him to tell Griese, "I didn't mean to hurt him."

"That's very nice of him," Griese said. "I know there was no malice involved."

Griese said he was hit low by East as he let go an incomplete pass. Deacon Jones hit him around the waist a second after East drove his shoulder into the quarterback's leg.

"I felt pressure in my leg as I was going down and I knew it was dislocated or something like that. I knew I wasn't going to be in there for the next play," said Griese.

Griese is predicting Super Bowl for Miami

MIAMI (UPI)—Miami quarterback Bob Griese accepted an apology Monday from the man who smashed his right leg and predicted that his replacement, Earl Morrall, will take the Dolphins back to the Super Bowl.

Griese was tackled by San Diego defensive lineman Ron East midway through the first quarter of Miami's 24-10 victory over the Chargers Sunday and suffered a broken small bone of his right leg and a dislocated ankle.

Monday, the 27-year-old Griese met newsmen in his hospital room before going home on crutches with his leg in a cast for at least six weeks. Team physician Dr. Herbert Birgin estimated it might be eight weeks before Griese could play again.

A team official told Griese in the hospital that East had stopped Morrall on the field Sunday and told him to tell Griese, "I didn't mean to hurt him."

"That's very nice of him," Griese said. "I know there was no malice involved."

Griese said he was hit low by East as he let go an incomplete pass. Deacon Jones hit him around the waist a second after East drove his shoulder into the quarterback's leg.

"I felt pressure in my leg as I was going down and I knew it was dislocated or something like that. I knew I wasn't going to be in there for the next play," said Griese.

He said as he sat in the middle of the Orange Bowl waiting for a stretcher to take him to the hospital his thoughts were on "how long I was going to be out. I knew I was through for the day, but I was wondering how many games I would miss."

The game was scoreless when Griese left and Morrall stepped in, in his 17th year of quarterbacking in the National Football League and on the spot again. Morrall said he told the team in the huddle, "Okay, gang. Let's keep it together. Let's get it moving."

The 38-year-old former Baltimore Colt backup for Johnny Unitas drove the team to two touchdowns, passing for both, and safety Dave Anderson collected a third on a fumble recovery.

"It's Earl's ball game now," Griese said. "He did a whale of a job Sunday. He's someone who can step in and win the ballgame. I think we've got a quarterback who can take the team right on to the Super Bowl."

"I feel this team is strong enough that any single individual getting hurt isn't going to affect the progress of the team," said Griese.

"I think the team is going to go on into the playoffs and win the Super Bowl. For me, it's a shame after coming so far not to be a part of it."

Griese had been hurt twice before in his six-year pro career, in 1967 when he missed two games with a shoulder injury, and in 1969 when he missed four games with a knee injury.

Morrall faces a situation similar to the 1968 season, when Unitas was injured and Earl went all the way, leading the Colts to a record 15 regular season and playoff victories. But Baltimore lost that season to New York in the Super Bowl.

Widow files lawsuit

DETROIT (UPI)—The widow of Detroit Lions football player Chuck Hughes filed a $21.5 million lawsuit against Henry Ford Hospital Monday, charging three unnamed doctors with failing to inform her husband of a heart condition that killed him on the football field.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court by Sharon I. Hughes of El Paso, Tex., widow of the player who died last Oct. 24 of a heart seizure during a football game with the Chicago Bears at Tiger Stadium. He was 28.

The lawsuit charged that Hughes was not informed of his heart trouble during a May 1971 checkup at the hospital, despite electrocardiograms which indicated a heart condition.

The defendants well knew that Hughes was a professional athlete and as such was required to engage in strenuous physical activity not advisable for one who had suffered heart damage, the suit said.

The suit said the doctors were either negligent in misreading the electrocardiogram or else they willfully and wantonly and in "reckless disregard of the life and health" of Hughes failed to tell him of the condition.

Standings

Fans greet A's on return home

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland A's came home Sunday night to the cheers of 10,000 fans, a mob considerably larger than crowds that turned out for many of the club's games this season.

"Everybody loves a winner," said pitcher Jim Bouton, who had pitched the final out of the Oakland International Airport.

"I can't believe it," Hunter said. "This is marvelous. We're going to win the series with this kind of a crowd."

Hunter held out until four hits in eight innings Sunday in the A's 2-1 win at Cincinnati, giving Oakland a 2-0 lead in the World Series.

The team the fans wanted most to see, however, was Joe Rudi, who led a homer in the third and made a sensational ninth-inning catch. The infielder leaped up a 12-foot wall and barely caught the ball in the webbing of his glove.

Police whisked Rudi away

after he spoke to the crowd.

Gene Tenace, who hit two homers to win the first game, told the ecstatic fans, "We have no doubts we're going to beat the Reds in the next two games and end it right here in Oakland."

Many of the waving, shouting fans carried placards reading the Athletics. One read, "Vida for Pres." Referring to Oakland batter Vida Blue.

Arms shot up as fans, jostled each other to shake hands with their heroes, including pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom who pitched on a stand overlooking the throng.

A's owner Charles O. Finley appeared upset that some of his players didn't address the crowd.

If there are any players on that bus who didn't have enough guts to get up on this stand and show their appreciation, I don't want them," he shouted as the team has left the airport.

Fairbanks praises Oklahoma defense

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Hardnose basic defense, no dice shooting, shut out the Texas Longhorns and scored two touchdowns in Oklahoma's 27-0 victory in the Cotton Bowl Saturday. Coach Chuck Fairbanks said Monday.

"I've lost the impression that both teams were shooting dice," Fairbanks said at his press conference. "That's not true. There was no gambling, just pretty basic defense by both teams. In fact, we did better than we expected that we've done in our career."

Fairbanks praised the defense, the names of his defense standouts DeLand Moore, Eric Selmon, Tommie Hamilton and Deane Carter. He said he had later in the game that the whole team.

"The staff and I wanted them all because some of them were involved," he said.

But DeLand Moore, considering he was playing, outside Texas great All-American Jerry Sizemore, considering the opposition he had, I thought his game was truly outstanding," Fairbanks said.

Moore blocked a quick kick which Selmon recovered in the end zone for Oklahoma's first touchdown and recovered a blocked punt to score the second touchdown on the day for the defense.

"This was the best performance of any defensive team I've ever been associated with, coaching or playing," Fairbanks said.

Fairbanks also had praise for the Sooners' All-American, halfback Gene Pruitt, who led the charged only 11 times for 81 yards.

Eric Pruitt played one of the best games he's ever played for us," Fairbanks said.

It was a complete total football game, running and blocking.

We didn't have the whole team coordination that we've had before," Fairbanks said.

This was really caused by our team and really caused by the way Texas was playing, against us.

I'm proud of our whole football team," he said. "Unless you've been there, down on the field, there is no way to realize how hard both were playing."

Fairbanks was pleased with the place kicking of Rick Elbert and the punting of Joe Wells and named these would be vital in next Saturday's game against Colorado.

Eric Lamar, Colorado's place-kicker, is fantastic," Fairbanks said. "I've never seen anything like him."

Fairbanks kicked a 27-yarder for a 14-7 lead against Iowa State Saturday.

It seems to me Colorado is having, with tremendous intensity right now," Fairbanks said.

They're the first team we've played that has great talent in the skill positions," he said. "If they play as well as they are capable of, they can beat anybody. I think we're going to see an awfully tough game."

The game will be a major regional telecast, covering approximately 80 per cent of the country. A record crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

Late TD lets Green Bay topple Detroit 24-23

DETROIT (UPI) — Quarterback Scott Hunter, operating with all the precision of the man calling his plays, Bart Starr, threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to rookie Leland Glass with 1:54 to play Monday night to give the Green Bay Packers a 24-23 victory over the Detroit Lions.

The winning drive consumed 7 minutes 28 seconds and gave the Packers a one-game lead over the Lions and a two-game bulge on the Minnesota Vikings in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

Hunter took control with nine and a half minutes left in the nationally televised game after Errol Mann equalled his career best with a 51-yard field goal, his third of the game, to give Detroit a 23-17 lead.

Hunter, a second-year quarterback from Alabama, whose play selection generally is dictated by Starr from the press box, hit two straight passes and then started calling on running backs John Brockington and MacArthur Lane until Green Bay got in position for the winning pass.

Glass, an eighth-round draft choice from Oregon, beat cornerback Rudy Redmond in the end zone and rookie Chester Marcol kicked the tie-breaking extra point.

Two desperation passes by Greg Landry were dropped by Detroit receivers when the Lions tried to rescue the game, in which they once held a 17-0 lead.

sneak with 2:42 to go in the half after the Lions had held the Packers to a single first down for 27 minutes.

Marcol kicked a 34-yard field goal early in the third quarter and Ken Ellis returned a punt 80 yards for the second Green Bay touchdown with 1:04 left in the third quarter.

An interception by Lem Barney led to a two-yard scoring option run by Landry early in the game. In the second quarter, Mann kicked a 12-yard field goal and Albie Taylor scored from the one after Detroit recovered a fumble by Lane at the Green Bay 11 to give the Lions their 17-0 lead.

Drysdale loses in tournament

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Cliff Drysdale of South Africa was the first of the top seeded players to suffer defeat Monday in the $50,000 Rothman's International Tennis Tournament as he dropped a 7-6, 6-3 decision to Brian Fairlie of New Zealand.

The first set was decided by a 12-point Wimbledon tie-breaker which Fairlie won 10-8, having never been ahead by more than two points throughout the tie-breaker.

Drysdale seemed to recover during the first game of the second set when he broke Fairlie's service but the 24-year old New Zealander held service in the third game despite trailing love-10. He then broke Drysdale consecutively in the fourth and sixth games.

In an earlier first round match, unseeded Allan Stone of Australia won a tie-breaker in the third set to defeat 11th seeded Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico 4-6, 6-2, 7-6.

Colts fire head coach after 1-4 season mark

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts today fired head coach Don McCafferty and replaced him with defensive line coach John Sandusky.

McCafferty, who became head coach of the Colts in 1970 after Don Shula left to take over the coaching reins of the Miami Dolphins, has a record of 21-5-1 for his two complete seasons as head coach for the best percentage among active coaches in the American Conference of the National Football League.

However, the Colts, crippled this year by injuries to such star performers as defensive end Bubba Smith and running back Norm Bulach, sport a 1-4 record this season following Sunday's 21-0 loss to the Dallas Cowboys.

Joe Thomas, general manager of the Colts, said it was his decision to fire McCafferty and that he had cleared it with owner Bob Irsay.

"The team has been playing very badly and we owe it to our fans to do something about it," Thomas said. "I talked with Bob Irsay and he agreed 100 percent that this move should be made."

Thomas said McCafferty would not remain with the team in any capacity.

Sandusky said he was "surprised and shocked" and that he was not planning any "wholesale changes."

The 51-year-old McCafferty coached the Colts to the 1971 Super Bowl where they were beaten by the Dallas Cowboys 16-13.

Sandusky, who was the Colts' defensive line coach, was named to the head coaching post for the remainder of the season.

He joined the Colts as defensive line coach in 1959 and switched to the offense as coach in 1963 before switching back to the defense in 1969. He was a standout tackle on both offense and defense for seven seasons with the green Bay Packers and the Cleveland Browns before retiring as an active player in 1956.

Before joining the Colts' coaching staff, Sandusky served two years as an assistant coach at Villanova University where he earlier had gained All-America honors.

McCafferty, before becoming head coach of the Colts, served 21 years as an assistant coach, 11 of them with the Colts. He joined Baltimore in 1959 as offensive end coach and scout, assuming the backfield directorship in 1963 when Don Shula became head coach.

Prior to the start of the current campaign, the Colts underwent a change of ownership when Carroll Rosenbloom sold the team to Robert Irsay. Rosenbloom, in turn, took over the Los Angeles Rams.

Daugherty doesn't plan to retire

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Duffy Daugherty said Monday he planned to return as Michigan State's football coach next season despite the criticism that has greeted four straight defeats.

"I'm too young to retire," Daugherty grinned when asked if this season, his 19th as the Spartans coach, might be his last.

"I don't blame you for conjecturing and writing that this might be my last year," he told newsmen at his weekly luncheon with the press. "But don't expect me to help you write your story."

The Spartans, 1-4, are winless since beating Illinois in their opener, sparking speculation that Daugherty might not be back in 1973. The latest loss was a 10-0 setback Saturday to arch-rival Michigan, the third year in a row the Wolverines have beaten the Spartans.

Daugherty said he was not "immune to criticism."

"But," he added, "I've had enough of it that it certainly doesn't shock me anymore."

"Anybody can criticize. And anybody who buys a $6 ticket to watch a game has the prerogative to criticize," he said. "When you're losing football games, you're going to be criticized. I've been criticized when we lost two games in a season. I was criticized the year we won the national championship and then lost in the Rose Bowl."

Daugherty said he doubted any team in the country could have played the Spartans' last three opponents in succession—Southern California; Notre Dame and Michigan—and win all three games.

He said this season has been "a lot worse than we expected" but he said the Spartans have shown improvement and the squad "certainly" could win its remaining six games and end up 6-1 in the Big Ten.

"If we play like we did the last couple of weeks and improve with each game as we should, then we should have a chance against any of our remaining opponents," he said.

"There's enough of the players who realize we're a pretty good football team that I don't think we'll have a letdown. We just hope we're not out of the conference race. If somebody beats Michigan then we're still in the race."

Miami beat Tulane with fifth down

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — The University of Miami acknowledged Monday the Hurricane football team beat Tulane Saturday night on a fifth down that resulted from an official's error, but refused to forfeit the game.

After a meeting with representatives of the trustees, faculty and the football team, University Athletic Director Ernie McCoy issued a statement saying the university felt it would be "inappropriate" in the light of all the circumstances involved to forfeit the game.

Miami won the game 24-21 on a fifth down pass from Ed Carney to Witt Beckman in the final minute of the Saturday night game in the Orange Bowl. The Hurricane offense had started off the field after failing to get a first down on four downs, but the players were called back by officials who said Miami had another down.

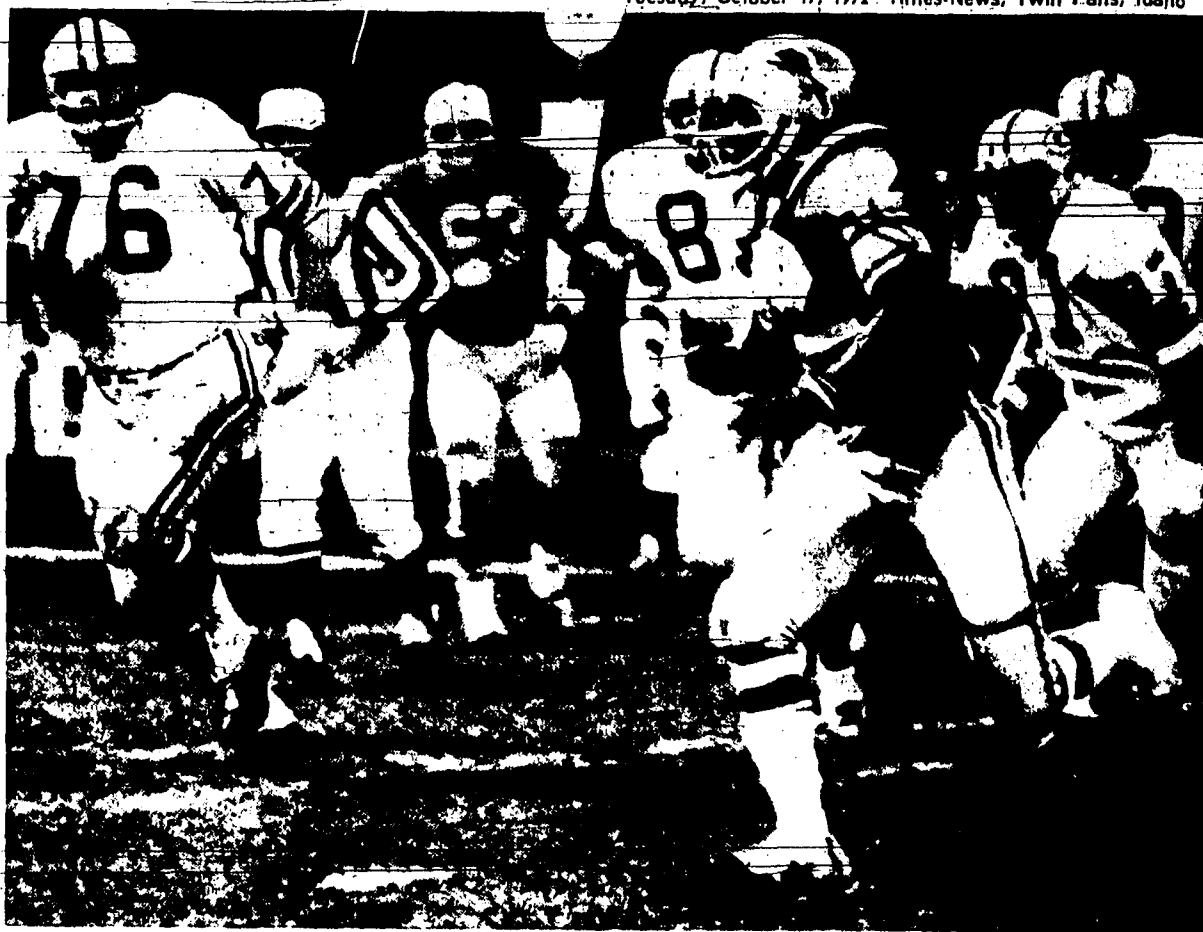

McCoy said that a thorough study of game films and the official play-by-play record of the game had shown that "the University of Miami did receive an additional offensive down upon which it scored its final and winning touchdown."

The statement pointed out that there was still nearly a minute left after the score in which Tulane could have scored again and that "this naturally raised the question with the staff and the team as to the appropriate action if any which should be taken by the university."

McCoy said the Miami officials contacted David Nelson, director of athletics for the University of Delaware and secretary of the national football rules committee, and that after reviewing the matter Nelson had pointed out that for a team to be ordered to forfeit a game there would have to be official wrong-doing by the team.

"Mr. Nelson most strongly recommended that this step not be taken by any university in circumstances such as those present here," McCoy said, referring to the fact that the error resulted from "an irregularity in officiating."

Stan Mikita paces Chicago to NHL lead

MONTREAL (UPI) — Stan Mikita's nine points in four games for Chicago has the Hawks off and running in the lead in the West Division of the National Hockey League.

Mikita, four-time Art Ross Trophy winner as the scoring leader in the NHL, has assisted on goals seven times and slapped in scores twice to hold a one-point edge over Bob Berry of Los Angeles, Gil Perreault of Buffalo and Fred Stanfield and John Bucyk of Boston in the individual scoring race.

While Chicago holds a two-point lead in the West over Pittsburgh, Detroit, with the help of the most potent offense thus far, leads the East by one point and is the only team with a perfect record.

Len Fontaine has racked up seven points for the balanced Red Wings attack, which also has featured six points by Red Berenson, and five each by Guy Charron, Marcel Dionne, Mickey Redmond, Gary Bergman and Alex Delvecchio.

Montreal, tied with Buffalo only a point behind Detroit, has allowed only an incredible three goals in its first four games. The Expos have received superb netminding from Ken Dryden, who has notched two shutouts.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES A difficult day when most persons are out of tune with circumstances about them and want to blame others for conditions that actually come from the planets. Be gentle and kind. And be sure to handle all upcoming situations in a most intelligent way. Show more poise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are in the doldrums and should try to help those less fortunate than yourself. Tonight you can make plans for a new activity that will bring benefits you want and need. Be cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It's fine to get together with a good friend but don't bring up controversial subjects that could be upsetting. Show that you are a kind person with a good sense of humor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't give in to a temptation to belittle a higher-up and thus avoid trouble. Being reckless in any way at this time could jeopardize the fine reputation you have been building up.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study every detail connected with a new activity you have decided to launch and you will be successful. Show cordiality and courtesy toward others. Use a new approach.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) No better day than this to handle those mounting responsibilities. Show associates and friends that you can be depended upon. Strive to have more accord with the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to make those changes in agreements you have made with others, but tomorrow is fine. Plan to lighten the load of associates. Show that you have much ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Start on that work ahead of you but don't become involved in any arguments with fellow workers with whom you do not agree. Show that you can solve a mechanical problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you want to have a good time, don't force your wishes on others, or they will resent it. Use diplomacy. Try to delve into recreations that require few people to enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you are objective in studying the situation at home, you find that you can handle problems there easily. Others are in an irritable mood, so tread lightly. Avoid emotionalism.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care in travel and don't upset others in conversations in any way and this becomes a most productive day. Being careful of your money while shopping is wise. Be alert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to spend beyond your means today or you could regret it later on. Study the cost before you put your money on the line. Analyze your financial position accurately.

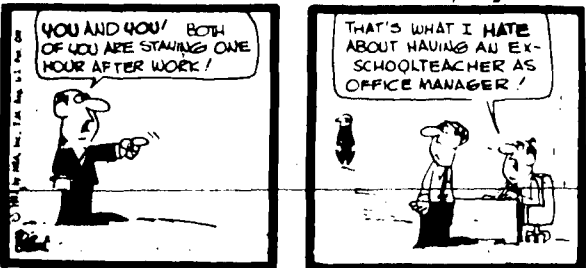

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't allow yourself to become depressed over unexpected turn of events. Conditions will improve by tomorrow. Take health treatments and get back on the beam. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those dynamic young people who needs regulated duties, otherwise your youngster could get into unwanted mischief. Under proper direction this chart can be worked out well and the fine potential realized. There could be a born problem solver here, so direct the education along such lines. Religious teaching early in life is definitely needed.

Nazi plan to hit US cities found

BERLIN (UPI)—Nazi military strategists drew up detailed plans for bombing American cities as far inland as Indianapolis, according to documents found in Nazi archives.

East German historian Olaf Groehler said in the latest issue of "German Democratic Report," an East German newsletter published in English, that the plans probably would have been carried out if the Nazi war machine had not been so heavily engaged on the Eastern front.

Though military historians have long known that Nazi leaders discussed bombing the United States, Groehler says the memorandum he found in Nazi archives shows that serious studies were made of the possibilities.

According to Groehler, the bombing plans contemplated round trip flights from occupied France with refueling stops on the Azores Islands.

Entitled "Tasks for long-range planes," the plans were drafted by German Luftwaffe (air force) Col. Dietrich Schwenke on April 27, 1942, and submitted to Air Minister Herman Goering on May 12, 1942, Groehler said.

"No record has yet been discovered as to what decisions were taken, but the plans to bomb the United States obviously were abandoned," Groehler said.

The plans called for air raids on Brooklyn, N.Y., Detroit, Hartford, Conn., Cincinnati, Rochester, N.Y., Badin, N.C., Indianapolis, Pawcatuck, Conn., Beaver, Pa., Natrona, Pa., Caldwell, N.J., Berwick, Pa., La Porte, Ind., Corning, N.Y., and Vancouver, Canada.

"Goering's Luftwaffe probably would have attacked if its attention had not been powerfully diverted by the critical and heavy fighting on the Eastern front," Groehler said.

The Nazi memorandum said: "On the coast of the U.S.A. there are aluminum works, aircraft engine works, propeller works and arms factories."

These can only be reached by Messerschmitt 264s with DB-613 motors carrying 5.5 tons of bombs and starting from Brest (in occupied France).

TWO YOUNG North Vietnamese children stand in their bomb shelter in Hanoi in this photo taken by CBS News correspondent John Hart during his recent three-week assignment in North Vietnam. Hart reported about his activities there in a special CBS News broadcast. (UPI)

Hiding out

US 'aces' to keep on flying

SAIGON (UPI)—All three of the U.S. Air Force's MIG-downing "aces" are scheduled to continue flying combat missions over North Vietnam, military sources said today.

Capt. Jeff S. Feinstein, 27, of East Troy, Wis., remains on flight duty over the North at present. He bagged his fifth MIG21 in a dogfight Oct. 13 west of Hanoi.

The Air Force's first ace—Capt. Steve Ritchie, 30, Reidsville, N.C.—is due back with his Thailand-based unit next week after a temporary duty assignment in the states. Ritchie shot down his fifth MIG July 9.

Capt. Charles D. DeBellevue, 26, of LaFayette, La., is also expected to return to duty soon. DeBellevue is the leading ace with six MIG kills—five MIG downings gives an airman ace status. He regularly flies as weapons systems operator in the back seat of Ritchie's F4 Phantom.

Ritchie and DeBellevue were assigned temporary stateside duty to attend several Air Force conventions taking place shortly after they won the coveted ace status.
